HC STEPS IN. DON'T FORGIVE CULPRITS: PM

Court takes suo motu cognisance of killing in Birbhum; Mamata to visit site today

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR
@New Delhi

THE horrific killing of eight persons, including two children, in an alleged revenge attack by Trinamool goons in West Bengal, took a new turn on Wednesday with the Calcutta High Court taking suo motu cognisance of the incident and directing the state government to file its probe report by 2 pm on Thursday.

The court also directed the Delhi Central Forensic Science Laboratory to send a team to the crime site in Rampurhat in Birbhum district to collect samples for forensic examination. It instructed the police to extend protection to the witnesses, including a boy injured in the arson, and ordered CCTV cameras to be installed at the crime scene and made functional until further orders.

Parallelly, the National Commission for Women directed the state DGP to take stringent action in view of the "brutality meted out to people including women" in the heinous crime.

The Trinamool Congress was in the line of fire from almost all quarters with Prime Minister Narendra Modi sharing his anguish and saying those who encourage such crimes must not be forgiven. P10

State cut social services spend by 3% in 2020-21: CAG

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE state finance audit report of the Comptroller and Auditor General of India for the year ended March 31, 2021 has pointed out that the share of expenditure under social services decreased by around 3 per cent during the financial year as compared to the previous year.

The CAG noted, "Adequate priority needs to be given to education and health sector as the ratio of expenditure under the sector to aggregate expenditure was less than the general category states and some of its neighbouring states."

Experts said the reduction was because of the pandemic and resulting poor collection of taxes. The report noted that Karnataka, which had recorded revenue surplus since 2004-05, witnessed a revenue deficit for the first time in 2020-21 to the tune of Rs 19,338 crore. P4

Non-Hindus can't do biz near temples: Minister

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka Hindu Religious Institutions and Charitable Endowments Act prohibits non-Hindu vendors from conducting their business on the premises or properties belonging to temples and the law was passed during the Congress government, said Law Minister JC Madhuswamy on the floor of the Assembly on Wednesday.

He was responding to Congress members, who questioned the decision of temple committees to prevent non-Hindus from doing business in and around temples in coastal Karnataka. Congress members objected to certain organisations putting up banners and posters near temples declaring this.

The minister said that one should not feel the government is encouraging such incidents that are damaging peace in society. "The government has no role. As per rules framed under the Karnataka Hindu Religious Institutions and Charitable Endowments Act in 2003, non-Hindus cannot be given the lease of properties like ground, building or any other place that belongs to state-owned temples," he said.

These rules were not framed by BJP, but Congress that was in power at that time, he pointed out.

If the banners are put up on roads and away from the temples, only then the state government can take action against perpetrators, he added.

Centre's curbs to end on March 31

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

WITH a visible drop in the number of Covid-19 cases in the country, the Centre on Wednesday asked states and Union territories to end all Covid containment measures from March 31. The decision to end the curbs came two years after the Disaster Management Act, 2005, was invoked following the pandemic outbreak.

However, wearing face masks and other Covid-appropriate behaviour such as maintaining physical distancing will continue, Union Home Secretary Ajay Bhalla said in a letter addressed to all state chief secretaries.

"After considering the overall improvement in the situation and preparedness of the government to deal with the pandemic, NDMA has decided that there may not be any further need to invoke the provisions of the DM Act for Covid containment measures," the letter read. Therefore, no further advisory may be issued by the home ministry after the expiry of the ministry's last order issued on February 25, Bhalla added. The current order expires on March 31.

The ministry had issued its first order and guidelines under the DM Act 2005 for Covid containment in the country on March 24, 2020. It has since then issued modified orders from time to time. The Centre's Covid restrictions are being withdrawn but people still need to remain watchful of the situation, Bhalla said. The letter advised states to remain alert and take prompt and proactive action if any surge is observed.

Flight with 165 on board rolls back at B'luru airport

AirAsia India aircraft reverses 100 feet in remote parking bay

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

ALTOGETHER 165 passengers aboard an AirAsia India flight which had reached Bengaluru from New Delhi survived a major scare on Tuesday, when their aircraft moved nearly 100 feet in the reverse direction, after it had safely landed and parked.

The incident did not happen in a main parking bay, but at a remote bay where the aircraft was parked and was to depart on its return leg shortly.

Flight No. I5 740 had taken off from Terminal 3 of the Indira Gandhi International Airport at 8 am and landed at Kempegowda International Airport at 10.36 am, four minutes before schedule. It was the lack of coordination between aircraft engineers on the ground and the Flight Captain that led to the situation, said a source.

Narrating the sequence of events, the source said the flight had landed safely and proceeded to the remote parking bay (which is not located near the aerobridge or the terminal) and not in the regular parking bays where aircraft are stationed when not operating. This was because the flight was to return to Delhi immediately (I5 741, 11.20 am)

Picture for representation only.

Explaining the normal sequence that is followed after landing, he said, "Whenever the landing of the flight is completed, the pilot puts the brakes on and then cuts off the engine. Engineers on the ground place chocks (wedge-shaped rubber or wooden blocks) in front and behind all the wheels to prevent the aircraft from rolling. The engineer then signals that the chocks are in place and the pilot releases the brakes. In the incident on Tuesday, the pilot had released the brakes probably assuming the chocks were already in place and this made the aircraft slide behind by 100 feet." Remedial action was taken by the pilot and the flight halted. "If any other aircraft had been taxiing behind it at that time, there would have been a collision endangering the passengers," he said, adding that such an incident is a rare occurrence.

A spokesperson of the airline said they are investigating the incident in detail. In a statement, he said, "While parking at the Bengaluru airport on March 22, an AirAsia India Airbus A320 aircraft rolled back. The pilot applied the brakes gently as per established procedures and stopped the aircraft. It was then towed and repositioned."

Due to the incident, there was a delay in disembarkation of passengers, which had a cascading effect on the flight's return trip to Delhi that got delayed by 18 minutes. It left at 11.38 am.

RGUHS must stop exam violations: HC

ENS @ Bengaluru

OBSERVING that examiners appointed by the Rajiv Gandhi University of Health Sciences (RGUHS) seem to be routinely violating the guidelines issued by the university for holding clinical examination, the Karnataka High Court on Wednesday warned the university that it should take precautionary measures and ensure that malpractices do not take place causing students to take examination again and again in the future due to such violations.

"It is now time that the university wakes up to reality and proceeds to take action against delinquent examiners by blacklisting them, or by holding departmental proceedings so that this kind of malpractices do not recur. It is open to the university to devise procedural safeguards to ensure compliance of the directions in this order," Justice P Krishna Bhat observed.

The court's observation came after the counsel of the petitioner-students Dasari Chakradhar and Shashikumar, students of 4th year MBBS, drew the attention of the judge on the directions issued by the high court in December 2020 in another petition to reconduct the practical examinations in view of malpractice due to similar violations. They filed the pleas against the Registrar of the RGUHS for the violation of guidelines in conducting the clinical examination by the examiners appointed by the university. The court directed the university to hold fresh practical examinations for failed subjects of surgery and paediatrics, respectively, for the petitioners within three weeks.

The 60s were idealistic, violent times: Author

Speaking at the launch, former education minister Suresh Kumar, lauded the book, saying, "I have known the author for 25 years and have seen him from close quarters. I have keenly observed his attitude towards the common man, his sense of justice and empathy for the poor. In his book, he vividly explains the futility of the movement he was a part of in his younger days because it sought to achieve its goals through violence."

The former minister, alongside former Director General and Inspector General of Police Dr Ajay Kumar Singh, and former Karnataka Lokayukta Justice N Santosh Hegde, launched the book on Wednesday.

The book is a semi-autobiographical, historical fiction set in the 1960s Telangana. It follows three friends as they manoeuvre their way through left-wing politics and organisations amidst the rise of the Naxalite movement.

Speaking about the book, the former IAS officer said, "I grew up in those dynamic times, walked through fire and came out fresh. Protest movements, disoriented riots, widespread civil unrest, political assassinations, alienation among youth, dreamy idealism and violent rebellions marked the decade that shaped generations to come."

B'luru tops in financial cover in Tier 1, 2 cities

ENS @ Bengaluru

ACCORDING to a survey released by Max Life Insurance and Kantar, Bengaluru has topped the charts as the most financially protected city in India. The survey, titled 'The India Protection Quotient 4.0', had 5,729 respondents from 25 cities in India. Bengaluru had a protection quotient of 56 per cent, the same as Delhi. Compared to other metropolitan and Tier-1 cities, Bengaluru has the highest percentage of life insurance ownership, at 91 per cent. However, the city ranked lowest in terms of financial security, with 53 per cent.

"The study shows that Bengaluru has outperformed other cities in India by achieving the highest life insurance uptake. However, there is ground to be covered on security levels, where the city has ranked lowest among other metros. This gap can be bridged by encouraging more proactive planning and enabling Bengaluru to realise the vital role of life insurance in protecting our loved ones," said V Viswanand, said deputy managing director for Max Life.

The survey also provided insights into the financial anxieties and priorities exhibited by Bengalureans. Interestingly, the survey found that mental health and wellbeing is a major priority for the city's citizens, followed by financial independence post-retirement and children's education.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

24th March: Pisces is my sign of the day. Pisceans are the most sensitive people on the planet, and when their lives are going well, the kindest. That augurs happily for a period when we can expect people of goodwill, no matter what their signs, to thrive. That should make a welcome change!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr 20)
You certainly cannot go far wrong if you stick to a creative and individualistic path. Only if you push your own interests to one side and conform to a routine that doesn't suit you, will the planets kick up a stink. Romantic partners are keeping their secrets, so if you're anxious to know their intentions you may have to sit back and be patient.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
It's not surprising that Taureans often don't see eye to eye with other people. After all, this is one of the famously obstinate fixed signs. However, if anyone is genuinely trying to reach agreement, do make allowances for them. You might even want to set a good example.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
There are certain complications or drawbacks relating to a financial matter but, on the whole, I think it is safe for you to proceed. Happily, you're heading for a windfall within a few weeks. However, its size cannot be predicted, so don't get too excited!

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Don't let anyone persuade you to forego certain benefits or rights. If you're going to give something up, and you probably will, it must be in a manner and at a time of your own choosing. That much is clear. However, I don't think other people will agree!

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
You may enjoy laying down the law over personal issues, but you must allow other people their say. Nobody will thank you if things that go wrong are your responsibility, so share the burden, and then others will share the blame. And this is, by the way, a time when even the best-laid plans might come unstuck!

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
The Moon, emotional as ever, is about to increase its role in your financial affairs. This is astrological jargon for saying that domestic costs are likely to rise, but that money invested in the fabric of your home should be well spent. Good news from far away should cheer you up.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
The odds now seem to be definitely on your side, though the outcome is not assured. You should now decide what's right for you and then carry it through with the courage of your convictions. If money is involved then take every possible precaution to make sure that you are totally insured.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
The Sun's current magnificent position plays a powerful role in the Scorpionic psyche yet, bearing in mind that nothing in astrology comes without effort, you must expect someone in authority to disagree with your plans before long - so get your arguments ready.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
It would be the easiest thing in the world to refuse to have anything to do with people who are in trouble or otherwise in need of assistance. Yet can you really stand and look the other way? It doesn't look as if you can, so lend whatever help is necessary.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
The relationship between Venus and Neptune is a lively one, and full of promise for pleasant social and romantic encounters. Therefore, please do your best to keep the peace, and see to it that other people benefit from your sense of cosmic goodwill.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Nobody should expect you to play a secondary or supporting role, especially not when you have so much to give. However, I must say that all your planets are lined up in regions of your chart that are putting charity, idealism and philanthropy before self-interest.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Your chart is in a profoundly powerful position, but you don't always make the most of your many talents. As a Piscean, you know that you are a born worrier, but this may not be the best time to dwell on the future. Please live for today and stop thinking about what might happen tomorrow. Oh - and relax!

TB OF BRAIN, SPINE ON THE RISE

Whole Genome Sequencing can detect cases; extra-pulmonary forms increasing in kids

CHETANA BELAGERE @Bengaluru:

MULTI Drug Resistant (MDR) TB continues to be on the rise. In many cases, this is leading to tuberculosis of the brain and spine. Experts working in the control room of TB burden in the state, say this area is overlooked and undiagnosed.

"Extra-pulmonary manifestations of Tuberculosis are on the rise, with Tuberculosis of brain and spine cases increasing. TB mainly affects the lungs, which is called pulmonary tuberculosis, but if it affects other organs such as brain, spine, uterus, heart, skin etc, it is known as extra-pulmonary TB. These cases are on the rise," said Dr Sachet Dawar, Assistant Professor, Dept. of Respiratory Medicine, Noida International Institute of Medical Sciences.

In case of TB of the brain, the bacilli enters the blood vessels when someone with TB sneezes or coughs, and then go into the brain, causing inflammation of the Central Nervous System, causing meningitis. With TB meningitis, the person can have symptoms of repeated fever and headaches and also in later stages, go into confusions and coma. Similarly, the TB bacilli enters the spinal area of the body, leading to TB of the spine -- Pott's Disease symptoms of severe backache and degeneration of bones.

However, doctors claim the world is effectively treating drug-susceptible forms of TB, and if it doesn't, community transmission of drug-resistant forms of TB can snowball into a difficult-to-treat endemic.

Stressing on diagnosis, pulmonary experts say the available tests are not enough. They are now calling for a wider roll-out of ultra-sensitive tests to get conclusive results, as well as the use of newer specimens such as stool samples, which could also be easier to detect paediatric cases. They also cite the need for whole genome sequencing (WGS) on a large scale, to detect MDR TB cases. "Though a battery of common Multi Drug Resistant TB tests is available, these tests fail to detect it," said a senior health department official. WGS, doctors claim, can emerge as the revolutionary one-stop solution for diagnosis and treatment of TB in India.

"WGS has been deployed in countries such as UK, Spain and Italy, and India recently adopted use of WGS for diagnosis of TB cases. This is very important," said Dr Sanjay Kumar, SHRC Hospitals.

Meanwhile, detecting TB in paediatric cases is also a challenge. While pulmonary TB, which attacks the lungs, remains a problem, the incidence of extra-pulmonary TB is also high among children.

Experts also stress on care and support for patients. It is critical to help them consume medicines regularly. Several patients are irregular in taking drugs, resulting in an increased treatment period, and also makes patients susceptible to drug-resistant TB.

"Investing in behavioural change and establishing social support systems for TB patients and caregivers through active community involvement helps improve adherence among vulnerable groups. It will reduce future financial burden by effectively preventing new infections," said Dr Rehana Begum, Project Lead, Breaking The Barrier, a project of Karnataka Health Promotion Trust (KHPT) to address gender and stigma issues in people with TB.

Assault by husband is also rape, let him face trial, says HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ BENGALURU

THE Karnataka High Court on Wednesday declined to interfere with charges framed against the husband for 'marital rape', despite exemption under Section 375 of IPC, by the sessions court in the city, considering the peculiar circumstances of the case filed by the wife.

"Charges framed against the husband for alleged offence punishable under Section 376 of the IPC for alleged rape of his wife does not warrant any interference. It is a matter of trial. If the allegation of rape is removed from the block of offences alleged, it would, in the peculiar facts of this case, be doing tremendous injustice to the complainant-wife and would amount to putting a premium on the carnal desires of the petitioner-husband," said Justice M Nagaprasanna, while hearing the petition filed by the husband against the sessions court order.

IN THE HC

Noting that the charge framed by the sessions court is to be altered by inclusion of offence punishable under Section 377 of the IPC, the court said exemption of the husband on committal of such assault/rape, cannot be absolute. "It is for legislature to delve upon the issue and consider tinkering of the exemption. This court is not pronouncing whether marital rape should be recognised as an offence or the exception... It is for legislature, on analysis of manifold circumstances and ramifications, to consider the issue. This court is concerned only with the charge of rape being framed on the husband," Justice Nagaprasanna said.

The court also gave a green signal to the sessions court to try the offences alleged under the POCSO Act against the husband, based on the complaint filed by the wife, for alleged sexual assault on their daughter.

HIGHLIGHTS OF VERDICT

Marital rape illegal in many countries

"Referring to exception under Section 375 IPC and considering such acts of the husband penal by terming it marital rape or spousal rape, the high court pointed out that marital rape is illegal in 50 American states, 3 Australian states, New Zealand, Canada, Israel, France, Sweden, Denmark, Norway, Soviet Union, Poland, Czechoslovakia and several others. The United Kingdom, which the present Code largely draws upon, has also removed the exception..."

Inequality destroys soul of Constitution

"A woman being a woman is given certain status; a woman being a wife is given a different status. Likewise, a man being a man is punished for his acts; a man being a husband is exempted for his acts. It is this inequality that destroys the soul of the Constitution, which is Right to Equality. The Constitution recognises and grants such equal status to woman as well."

CM chairs all-party meet on quota in local body polls

Reservation will be as per SC order, final decision later this month

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai held an all-party meeting that unanimously decided to hold elections for local bodies, after providing reservation for Backward Classes. The meeting was convened to discuss making provision for reservation for Backward Classes in elections for urban and rural local bodies.

Speaking to media persons after chairing the all-party meeting, Bommai said they will identify political backwardness among backward classes, after which a commission will be constituted. He said reservation will be done as per the Supreme Court order, and that they will convene another meeting by March-end and take a final decision. Leader of Opposition Siddaramaiah will also attend the meeting.

Further, Bommai said they have the option of conducting elections after constituting a Commission and getting its report, or to file a review petition in the Supreme Court. "It is impossible to hold elections without reservation for Backward Classes," he added.

At the meeting, they also discussed increasing reservation for STs to 7.5 per cent, in accordance with the demand of the community. According to Bommai, the ST population has increased. "The previous government had constituted the Justice Nagamohan Das Commission which had submitted its report to BS Yediyurappa when he was chief minister. The Commission had recommended increasing the SC, ST reservation quota," Bommai said.

"We have decided to deliver social justice for these communities by increasing their reservation quota in the backdrop of the Justice Nagamohan Das report, judgments in Maharashtra's Jayashree Patil case, Indira Sahney case and also getting an interim report from Justice Subash Adi," Bommai added.

Speaking on the demand from the Kuruba community, which belongs to Category 2A, for inclusion into the ST list, and some 3B Category communities want to be included into 2A Category, the CM said there is the issue of a 50 per cent ceiling on quota, which they will study.

MEKEDATU PROJECT

STATE MAY PASS DAM RESOLUTION TODAY

BENGALURU: The Karnataka Assembly is likely to pass a resolution condemning a Tamil Nadu resolution against the Mekedatu project on Thursday. Law Minister JC Madhuswamy told TNIE that they have sought the legal opinion and the resolution is likely to be passed on Thursday. "Water Resources Minister Govind Karajol was unwell on Wednesday and could not attend the session," he added. Sources from the CMO said that Basavaraj Bommai has taken the opinion of legal experts in New Delhi and Bengaluru. The Tamil Nadu Assembly on Monday passed the resolution against Karnataka's proposal to construct the Mekedatu reservoir project. Bommai had stated whenever Karnataka takes up any project related to Cauvery, Tamil Nadu opposes it. "Tamil Nadu is, in fact, utilising additional water which is not their share and is taking up a reservoir project down south without permission. We will pass a resolution against that as well," he had said. ENS

After hijab, ban on Muslims in jatras puts coast on edge

VINCENT D'SOUZA @ Mangaluru

THE Karnataka Coast is in news for the wrong reasons again. Even as the hijab controversy is still alive, some temples in the region have banned Muslim vendors from taking part in temple jatras, which is again threatening the peace in the communally sensitive region.

In fact, the new controversy is a spillover from the hijab row. The Hindutwa outfits do not want Muslim vendors to benefit from the temple jatras as a matter of retaliation to Muslims traders shutting all their businesses in support of Karnataka bandh against the High Court's hijab verdict. Since the past few years, Hindutva outfits have been putting up banners asking Muslim vendors to stay away from jatras, but this time the 'discriminatory' practice has got the government's stamp.

Newspaper advertisements put out by state-owned Sri Mahalingeshwara Temple in Puttur about auctioning of stalls for the 11-day jatra clearly states that only Hindus are allowed. Temple Executive Officer Naveen Kumar Bhandary defends the move, citing an amendment brought in 2002 to the Hindu Religious Institutions and Charitable Endowments Act, 1997, which says that no land, building or other property in the temple vicinity can be leased out to non-Hindus, to justify the auction notice. He said this was not the first year wherein the temple had banned non-Hindu vendors and had been doing it at least for the last four years.

This decision had a cascading effect in Dakshina Kannada and Udupi districts with at least six temples following suit. Even Bappanadu Durgaparameshwari Temple in Mulky, an 800-year-old temple which is a symbol of communal harmony, saw the controversial banner in the temple vicinity. The legend has it that Bappa Beary, a Muslim merchant, had a major contribution in the construction of the temple and Muslims get the first 'prasadam' during the jatra. The temple authorities have distanced themselves from the banner but VHP leader Sharan Pumpwell said Hindu devotees should rethink on allowing Muslim vendors as jatra sees a business of more than Rs 1 crore.

Traders at Marikamba Jatra festival put up saffron flags on their shops set up around the temple on Kote Road and, for the first time, no traders from the Muslim community have been allowed to put up stalls | SHIMOGA NANDAN

Social harmony being disrupted, says Opposition

RAISING the issue during zero hour, Congress MLA UT Khader said street vendors near temples work hard to earn their livelihood. "They are not stealing or indulging in dacoity. They are leading a respectful life. But because of some vested interests, banners and posters have been put up at various places across the state, insisting that non-Hindus are not allowed to do their business. It does not say who put up those posters. These are cowards who are indulging in such acts," he said.

"The mischief is being committed by communal elements, who want to disrupt peace in society. The police too are refusing to register cases," he alleged. It started in Shivamogga, reached coastal areas and has now spread to all parts of the state, he said.

Shivajinagar MLA Rizwan Ahmed said people from different communities have been living in harmony for years. All religious celebrations have contributions from all religions. "But banning a certain religion is a dangerous trend, and it can turn from bad to worse," he added.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

JUSTICE K N Phaneendra, former judge of the Karnataka High Court, has been appointed Upa Lokayukta. The post fell vacant after the term of Justice N Ananda as Upa Lokayukta ended on December 2020.

According to the State Government's notification on Tuesday, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai recommended Justice Phaneendra's name for the post after consulting the Chief Justice of the High Court, Speaker of Legislative Assembly, Chairman of Legislative Council and Leader of Opposition in both the Houses of the Karnataka Legislature. Hindu man nabbed for threats against BJP MLC

@ Shivamogga

THE Bagalkot police have arrested a man who was wanted by the Shivamogga police for allegedly issuing threats to BJP MLC D S Arun using a fake social media profile.

Interestingly, the profile had the name of a Muslim man, but the accused turned out to be a Hindu. The accused, Siddaroodh Shreekanth (31), is a resident of Gokak taluk of Belagavi district.

The MLC had received threats from a person who identified himself as 'Mustak Ali', after the former issued a media statement in the wake of the murder of Bajrang Dal activist Harsha in Shivamogga recently. Alleging that the MLC gave anti-Muslim statements, the man allegedly issued threats over Facebook. However, the person turned out to be a Hindu man.

Bagalkot SP Lokesh Jagalasar said a case was registered at CEN police station in Bagalkot recently related to inflammatory comments made on social media by one Mustak Ali. "Upon investigation, it was found that the accused was in fact Siddaroodh Shreekanth who had created a fake profile. He was using this profile for malicious purposes such as posting inflammatory content.

Burden of interest payment an increasing trend: CAG

AGAINST the projected revenue of Rs 69,592 crore, actual taxes collected by the state and GST compensation received aggregated to Rs 60,660.32 crore, a shortfall of Rs 8,932.17 crore.

The CAG noted that open market loans amounted to 63 per cent in the total fiscal liabilities, including off-budget borrowings, by the state. The burden of interest payment was on an increasing trend, and the ratio of interest payment to revenue receipts was highest during 2020-21 at 14.95 per cent.

The CAG noted that against the total provision of Rs 2.65 lakh crore, expenditure incurred was Rs 2.42 lakh crore which meant an unspent provision of Rs 22,526.24 crore. It stated that orders were issued for incurring additional expenditure of Rs 5,281.70 crore without approval from the legislature. These executive orders were later regularised through supplementary demands.

During 2020-21, the state government amended the Karnataka Fiscal Responsibility Act to raise the fiscal deficit from 3 per cent to 5 per cent of the estimated Gross State Domestic Product as a one time relaxation due to the pandemic.

North Indian style of politics will fail in South, says HDK

Taking a dig at the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), JDS leader H D Kumaraswamy said the North Indian style of politics, which the party has been experimenting with in the South, especially in Karnataka, will not work out. "Playing up sensitive issues will not yield results in Karnataka. Only hard work and development will work here. People's heart can only be won through love and affection," the former chief minister said in the Assembly on Wednesday. He expressed concern that Karnataka was becoming be a land of hatred with issues like the hijab row and murder of a Bajrang Dal activist shaking up the state.

MLC seeks action over hijab protests

He said Muslim organisations can question the order in the Supreme Court, but they have no right to call for bandhs or protests.

Prisons bill passed amid opposition walkout

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

AMIDST a walkout by Congress and JDS members, the Karnataka Prisons (Amendment) Bill, 2022, was passed in the Legislative Council on Wednesday.

The government has amended the Karnataka Prisons Act to specify that mobile phones or any instrument of communication is prohibited inside prison premises and has also increased the punishment for using them, from six months to not less than three years, but which may extend up to five years. The fine, which was Rs 200, has also been increased.

Further, the amendment also provides for imprisonment of the person, who stood surety to the prisoner in case of the prisoner jumping parole, to a period of 6 months to 12 months. The minimum jail term of the prisoner failing to surrender after the parole ends has also been extended to three years from a term which may extend to two years.

When Home Minister Araga Jnanendra tabled the Bill in the Council, several members demanded that it be withdrawn and said the provision to imprison people giving surety for inmate jumping parole was inhuman. The MLCs said the prison officials were behind the supply of prohibited articles, like mobile phones and ganja to inmates, and provisions should be made to punish them.

In reply, Jnanendra said if any official is found at fault, they will also be put behind bars and the provision for the same has been made in the amendment. However, the members were not convinced. The Home Minister said 83 prison staff have been suspended for dereliction of duty and departmental inquiry was initiated against 33 staff between 2016-2022.

When he proposed to pass the Bill, the Congress members walked out first followed by the JDS members, while the Bill was passed by the ruling BJP members.

Congress comes out against fuel price hike

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE state Congress on Wednesday came down heavily on the Central government for the repeated hikes in fuel prices, and vowed to take up protests in the coming days.

"We have decided to fight against the price rise and we will agitate in the coming days," said Leader of the Opposition Siddaramaiah. He said the last price revision was executed in November before the elections to the five states were held.

He said price was hiked by about 80 paise on petrol and diesel, and Rs 50 on LPG even when people are already reeling under high costs. The prices of cooking oil, iron and cement have already skyrocketed.

He added if the price of diesel goes up, the prices of fertiliser, food items and so on will all increase because diesel has a cascading effect on many other sectors and this will burden the common man. The Union government is reducing taxes on corporates and levying more taxes on the common man. I am opposed to price rise, he said.

"I urge the Union government to stop hiking the prices because they are burdening the common people. The hike in the prices of petrol, diesel and gas should be withdrawn," he said.

Former CM B S Yediyurappa removes Cong leader Siddaramaiah's headphones

Friends, foes and food: Graceful BSY keeps it personal

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

FORMER chief minister B S Yediyurappa certainly believes in the personal touch. On Wednesday, amid the chaos and arguments reverberating in the Legislative Assembly, the 79-year-old veteran calmly walked across the floor of the House, personally inviting all the legislators for the lunch he is hosting on Thursday afternoon.

The luncheon has been a practice during the budget session, when the Chief Minister, ministers and senior leaders host lunch at Vidhana Soudha. The practice, which was stopped for the past two years due to the pandemic, was revived this year, and in the past few days, Revenue Minister R Ashoka, Water Resources Minister Govind Karjol, Industry Minister Murugesh Nirani and Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai have played host. On Wednesday, it was Health Minister Dr Sudhakar's turn.

What set Yediyurappa apart was his old-world gesture of walking up to each MLA in each row, cutting across party lines. As he approached, sitting members would rise up in respect for the leader, who beamed back with a broad smile. Even as he headed back to his seat, MLAs of all political hues rose as one to express their respect for him.

Yediyurappa also had a schoolboy moment as he approached former CM and Opposition leader Siddaramaiah, who was listening intently to the arguments, headphones on, oblivious to the happenings around. Creeping up on Siddaramaiah from behind his seat, he plucked the headphones off the Congress leader's head, and started giggling like a mischievous boy. Siddaramaiah was swift to reciprocate, and pulled him down into the next seat, and the duo had a lively conversation. The bonhomie was not lost on anyone, though Yediyurappa is known for his deadpan expression and serious talk.

On his way back, Yediyurappa extended his invitation to those in the media gallery, and also went up to cameramen standing patiently outside Vidhana Soudha.

What India Gains From The Fifth-Generation Of Jets

GIRISH LINGANNA

Generations change, and so do technologies. India is now proudly talking about fifth-generation fighter jets that are under production. A final picture in this regard arrived when, on March 17, Defence Minister Rajnath Singh inaugurated a building facility in Bengaluru to carry out research and development for the proposed new generation of fighter aircraft, which could have both manned and unmanned operational capability.

When this ambitious fighter jet joins the fleets of the Indian Air Force and the Indian Navy, India will be in the league of America, China, and Russia in having super advanced stealth fighter jets. If the deadline is met, then the first aircraft would be ready by 2024–25, and serial production may take a decade from now.

The fifth-generation generation Advanced Medium Combat Aircraft (AMCA) will be developed by the Defence Research and Development Organisation (DRDO). In all probability, the DRDO would have a tie-up with French engine manufacturer Safran.

Rajnath Singh, since December 2021, has been that saying India would have a strategic partnership with a French major for the indigenously designed twin-engine stealth aircraft project. The government had declared on the floor of Parliament that it had the intention of developing indigenous engines for the Light Combat Aircraft (LCA) and AMCA variants in partnership with a foreign major. Hindustan Aeronautics Limited (HAL) is the manufacturer, and the design group comprises the Aeronautical Development Agency (ADA), HAL, and DRDO. The estimated cost of this stealth supersonic multi-role fighter is about Rs 15,000 crore.

India has been talking about the single or double-seat, twin-engine AMCA since 2009. The advantage of a stealth fighter is that even radars will find it tough to detect it. It is built for precise targeting and uses laser-guided bombs. It is expected to perform a multitude of missions, including air superiority, ground-strike, suppression of enemy air defences and electronic warfare. Industry experts say that the AMCA would be along the lines of the US F-35, which is supposed to be the most advanced jet in the world.

AMCA Expectations

AMCA is expected to replace the ageing fleet of Jaguars, Dassault Mirages 2000 and MiG-27. It is said that AMCA MK1 will be equipped with 5th generation technologies, while MK2 will have incremental 6th generation technologies. It is also believed that the IAF is planning to have the MK1, with a US General Electric F414 engine manufactured in India for two squadrons, and the MK2, with a more powerful engine for five squadrons.

Features

The government is yet to disclose the features of the aircraft. However, it is believed to weigh 25 tonnes and carry about 1,500 kg of payload internally and another 5,500 kg of external payload. The fuel holding capacity would be about 6,500 kg. The gross weight could be in the range of 18,000 kg. It is expected to have passive sensors with artificial intelligence. The maximum speed could be 2,633 km/hr with a range of 3,249 km.

Fifth or sixth-generation fighter aircraft?

Any fortification of the Indian defence arms is welcome when it has a hostile neighbour like China. But the question is, how would one define it as a fifth or sixth-generation fighter aircraft? The question comes as there is no official definition as such. Each aircraft company gives its own definition. For example, it was Lockheed Martin that branded its new generation fighter as the fifth-generation F-22 Raptor. This was done to show its new product is different from its earlier product, the F-35 Lightning II.

China has brought its J-20 aircraft into the fifth-generation fighter, while the Rafale fighter jets of France, which were sold to India, were supposed to be the 4.5 generation. Russia's fifth generation is branded as T-50. The F/A-18E/F Super Hornet, according to Boeing, is the fourth generation. It is obvious that branding is a marketing tool for aircraft manufacturing companies. Each generation of aircraft will be slightly superior to the previous ones. New aircraft with more specifications are manufactured once the old stock is cleared or when the competitors come up with a better version of fighter aircraft. When the aircraft perform in a battle field, their versatility will be known.

Technologies change as per market demand. Sometimes, even companies create demand for their products by hyping their features. It would be difficult to make any guess as to whether India's fifth generation would meet the demand that may arise after a decade or more.

With all its military might, Russia has not yet been able to conquer Ukraine. According to defence analysts, Russia has not pressed the Su-57, a fifth-generation multirole stealth aircraft, into service. It probably doesn't have pilots who can fly the super sophisticated air defence system.

Ukrainian forces could also be smartly functioning, though using a less sophisticated air defence system but with the capability of detecting Russian jets. The world has not forgotten how the Serb forces smartly shot down a US Air Force F117 Nighthawk stealth jet by scattering surface-to-air missiles and making their radars dysfunctional.

Whatever may be the sophistication, it is the pilots' presence of mind and skill that finally makes a missile work. Having trained pilots and supporting technical staff is as important as possessing super-sophisticated arms.

11 burnt to death at Secunderabad godown

LPG leak, short-circuit could be the cause, say police; Eight fire tenders used to countrol the fire

PINTO DEEPAK @ Hyderabad

ELEVEN migrant workers from Bihar were charred to death in a major fire in a scrap godown at Bhoiguda in Secunderabad in the wee hours of Wednesday.

Another worker Prem Kumar managed to escape from the inferno and is now under treatment at Gandhi Hospital.

As there were no other entry or exit points to the first floor except a stair case which was already in flames, the workers could not escape. They remained trapped and died of burns and asphyxiation.

Co-workers and relatives of the victims arrive at the accident site | EXPRESS

Their bodies were beyond the scope of recognition. As the fire raged, people nearby heard the loud noise of LPG cylinders exploding.

The police and the fire department personnel are trying to figure out how the fire started- whether it was due to leaked LPG catching fire or electric short circuit.

A case has been registered against the owner of the scrap godown Sravan Traders Dhoki Sampath Kumar under sections 304A and 337 of the IPC.

City police commissioner CV Anand who visited the godown along with senior police officials said the deaths occured as all the victims were crammed into one godown, which was against the rules."It looks like smoke has engulfed them. Fire safety measures will be reviewed by the departments concerned. Investigation has already begun. The police are looking into all angles and also are finding out the cause of the fire."

Eight fire tenders from across the city were pressed into action and the fire which broke at around 3.30am was brought under control by around 7.30am. Meanwhile, hundreds of migrant workers from Bihar working in different parts of the city thronged the spot concerned over the safety of those trapped inside.

Dwarika Ram, who works at Amberpet told TNIE that he knew most of them and was in constant touch with them. "At Least three of them belong to our village Bangalipatti, two others from Amnour."

Raju Ojha of city based Bihar Samaj Seva Sangh said that all the victims went to their their places during the lockdown and had returned to work around fifteen months ago.

Based on a complaint from Prem Kumar, the survivor, police registered a case and a has begun into the incident.

Sri Lankan Tamils to be lodged in special camps; Coastline on high alert

M S THANARAJ @ Ramanathapuram

A day after 16 Sri Lankan Tamils, who arrived in two batches, were detained for attempting to illegally enter into India, the Rameshwaram judicial magistrate court on Wednesday sent three adults from the first batch of six refugees to 15 days judicial custody at Puzhal central prison near Chennai. The refugees on Tuesday said they were hit by loss of jobs and steep hike in prices of essential commodities because of the economic crisis in Sri Lanka.

Later on Wednesday, the State government decided to keep the other refugees at the Mandapam camp. According to Jacintha Lazarus, Commissioner of Rehabilitation and Welfare of Non-Resident Tamils, "The economic crisis in Sri Lanka has forced these people to seek refuge in India. We have asked authorities to keep such Sri Lankan Tamils at Rameshwaram refugee camp. Inquiry will be done at the camp itself."

The first batch of rescued Tamils were identified as Gajendran (24), wife Mary Clary (23), their four-month-old child Nisanth, and Duri (28) and her two children Esthar (9) and Moses (6). They were all residents of Jaffna and Kokupadaiyan, respectively. As per the court order, Nisanth and Moses were allowed to stay with their mothers at the prison, Duri's nine-year-old daughter Esthar has been handed over to her grandmother who is an inmate of Vellore refugee camp.

The second group of 10 Sri Lankan refugees, who arrived in Dhanushkodi on their own boats hours after the first batch late on Tuesday, was identified as Sivarethnam (30), his wife Mery Yalini (27), their children Reshalini (8) and Sindhuja (5); and Seiyathu Mohammad Miskim Aseem (45), his wife Sivasankankathi (33), and their children Samila (17), Mujini (15), Mohamed (13) and Bhoomika (8). Delhi court grants bail to Chidambaram, son

NEW DELHI: A Delhi court on Wednesday granted regular bail to former union minister P Chidambaram and his son Karti in corruption and money laundering cases filed by the CBI and ED respectively in relation to the Aircel-Maxis deal.

The court, which had earlier granted anticipatory bail to both the accused in the matter, accepted the bail bonds of Rs one lakh each in both the cases and granted regular bail.

The accused had moved application through their lawyer Arshdeep Singh, seeking relief after they appeared before the court in pursuance of summons issued against them after it took cognizance of the charge sheets filed by the probe agencies in the matter.

Earlier, the court had directed the agencies to file a status report in the Aircel-Maxis case which was adjourned sine die.

The case relates to alleged irregularities in the grant of Foreign Investment Promotion Board approval in the Aircel-Maxis deal.

The approval was granted in 2006 when Chidambaram was the Finance Minister.

The CBI and the ED had alleged that Chidambaram, as finance minister, had granted approval to the deal beyond his capacity benefiting certain persons and received kickbacks. PTI

Hubballi air quality worst in state, Yadgir, Bengaluru follow

ARUNKUMAR HURALIMATH @ Hubballi

THE air quality in Hubballi city has dropped following dust pollution and it has now figured in the data analyses released by IQAir, a Switzerland air quality technology company. The average annual particulate matter (PM 2.5) concentration (µg/m3) of Hubballi stands for 29.7 which is said to be highest in the state, followed by Yadgir and Bengaluru.

The IQAir has released data of air quality across the globe for 2021, in which Hubballi's PM 2.5 concentration stands at 29.7. Experts say the PM concentration keeps changing every minute based on the dust and season. It is said during the rainy season, dust concentration will be less and during the summer it will be very high.

However, Karnataka State Pollution Control Board (KSPCB) officials said the data was analysed by a private foreign company and they did not know how they analysed the data. Air quality in Hubballi drops during post-winter and summer seasons. In the months of March, April and May, PM 2.5 and PM 10 concentration rises above 100. The Board officials pointed out that Hubballi falls under non-attainment cities in the state. As on March 23, average daily PM 2.5 concentration is 101 and PM 10 concentration is 110 and it stands as moderate air.

No wars are unintended or 'accidental'. What is often unintended is the length and bloodiness of the war

INDIAN EXPRESS IS NOT AN INDUSTRY. IT IS A MISSION.

— Ramnath Goenka

ENDGAME FOR IMRAN IN PAKISTAN'S POWER ESTABLISHMENT

A week is a long time in politics. In just a few days from now, the cricketer-turned-prime minister of Pakistan could be walking back to the pavilion if dilatory tactics fail to buy him time. For the powerful Miltablishment in the country, PM Imran Khan appears to be past his use-by date. Widely known as the Army's poodle ever since he was swept into power, Imran seemed to have grown some claws of late and had to be cancelled. One of the early indicators of his ruptured relationship came in his showdown over replacing the ISI chief. The Army has now thrown him to the wolves by going neutral on a no-confidence motion against his regime. His chances of surviving it are remote since a bunch of his party's members of Parliament, who have enough numbers to topple the government, have revolted. As if on cue, the head of a body that was tasked to ferret out evidence of corruption against Imran's biggest foe Nawaz Sharif has just issued a public apology, saying he couldn't find even an iota of dirt against the exiled leader. So, Nawaz's considerable stash abroad is kosher, never mind the Panama Papers expose. And the buzz on Sharif's brother Shehbaz becoming the new head of a national government comprising all parties minus one (read Imran's) till general elections are due in 2023 is getting strong.

Anyway, Imran's dodgy legacy includes dragging his country deeper into a debt trap and becoming a lenders' pride by accepting all conditionalities, which sent the cost of even essentials like food and fuel spiralling. Also, the Damocles sword of disqualification by the election commission hangs over his party in a foreign funding case. His line on the Taliban in Afghanistan, too, is being seen as timid in Pakistan. And the chances of India ever improving ties with Pakistan are next to nil till he remains in office because of his sloppy diplomacy and personalised attacks. A change of guard would suit Indian interests and give peace a fresh chance.

Last year, when the political weather was balmy, Imran had sought a vote of confidence and bragged that all MPs had the democratic right to express themselves. It's that freedom of expression he desperately seeks to throttle now.

TACKLING COLOURISM IN TAMIL CINEMA

Girls growing up in Tamil Nadu might be familiar with the phrase, "Karuppa irunthaalum kalaiya irrukiraa" (she is pretty although she is dark). The state is hardly the sole part of India afflicted by intense colourism, but perhaps it is the only one where dark-skinned men are celebrated in popular culture while such women find little representation. The thriving Tamil film industry, known for its innovation and talent, has continued to favour light-skinned female actors over darker women, especially in recent decades, even poking fun at them in comedy tracks. But representation matters, especially for young people as they form ideas of self-worth and body image. With matrimonial columns filled with persons seeking 'fair' or 'wheatish' brides, many resort to skin-lightening treatments, although fairness creams now go by euphemisms promising "glowing" rather than lighter skin.

While some talented darker female actors such as Aishwarya Rajesh have given award-winning performances, high-profile representation of darker-skinned Indian women is coming from abroad. This is not to say that Western media industries are not rife with colourism, but that opportunities can be created with just a little bit of imagination. While actor-writer-showrunner Mindy Kaling's (herself part Tamil) Never Have I Ever featured a young Sri Lankan Tamil-Canadian Maitreyi Ramakrishnan as a lead, the second season of Shonda Rhimes's mammoth success Bridgerton features two British-Tamil women in lead roles, Simone Ashley and Charithra Chandran. All three women would be considered as meeting popular conventions of beauty, yet they offer only rare sparks of representation to women like them. It is perhaps not surprising that Kaling and Rhimes are women of colour themselves, seeking to fill a need often overlooked in an industry dominated by white men. Closer home, Tamil filmmakers do not lack imagination or skill. Having attempted to challenge class, caste and even patriarchal norms, it is time they started challenging the colourism that has come to be reproduced in their films.

New Delhi's decision to import oil from Moscow has disappointed the US and UK, but urging us not to do so as that would help the Russian economy is blatant hypocrisy

THE WAR IN UKRAINE AND ITS ECONOMIC FALLOUT

PINAK RANJAN CHAKRAVARTY

Former Ambassador and Secretary in MEA, and Visiting Fellow at ORF, Delhi

SOUMYADIP SINHA

US President Joe Biden called his Russian counterpart Vladimir Putin a war criminal. Some US Presidents have also been charged with war crimes. Gordon Brown, a former UK PM, has called for a Nuremberg-type trial for Putin. Western media is airing programmes about Putin facing trial for war crimes at the International Criminal Court. President Zelenskyy has become the darling of the Western media. Meanwhile, Russia has presented evidence at the UNSC that the US was funding biowarfare research in Ukrainian biolabs. America has denied these allegations as propaganda but suspicion about such clandestine research refuses to go away. The US has expressed concern about Russia taking over these biolabs for obvious reasons. The level of rhetoric in the propaganda war is fuelling the demonisation of Putin and, along with economic sanctions and massive arms aid to Ukraine, has underpinned the West's proxy war against Russia.

India has been asked to consider whether she will be on the "right side of history", when books are written about the Ukraine war because of refusal to side with the US and NATO. Such rhetoric is sometimes inevitable during geopolitical tensions. Delivering veiled threats, based upon prescriptive and judgemental policies, are part of information warfare and diplomatic pressure tactics. The US and UK have been on the wrong side of history innumerable times, causing deaths of millions of civilians and humongous material damage. Russia is also culpable for causing Ukrainian civilian casualties, destruction of infrastructure and creating a humanitarian crisis. The war is not going well for Russia in the face of Ukrainian resistance. Negotiations are continuing but no agreement is in sight. Abandoned by NATO, Zelenskyy has appealed to Putin for talks.

Sweeping unilateral economic sanctions seek to impose costs on Russia's economy. There is also the fond hope that economic pain on the Russian people will lead to a regime change in Moscow. Sanctions also affect India and other countries, though we were not consulted. There is no international legal basis for these sanctions. The immediate impact has been on oil prices, a vital energy resource. India imports 80–85% of her oil and the jump in prices will affect GDP growth. Coming on the heels of Covid, the adverse economic impact is considerable. India has to source her energy needs at competitive prices. While the US has banned import of Russian oil and gas into her market, European nations have avoided sanctions for obvious reasons—they are hugely dependent on Russian oil and gas. Sanctions are being tweaked to help European countries to import Russian oil and gas, including waivers from SWIFT sanctions. New Delhi's decision to import oil from Moscow has disappointed the US and UK, but urging us not to do so because that would help the Russian economy is blatant hypocrisy.

India's answer has been to book around six million barrels of Russian oil at discounted prices. This quantity is relatively small, just about a day's national consumption. Geopolitically driven sanctions reduced the supply of Iranian and Venezuelan oil. As part of her "Monroe Doctrine", the US had imposed sanctions on Venezuela because the American-backed candidate lost the election. Now, America has gone scurrying back to it for increasing oil production. It has even tried to approach Saudi Arabia and the UAE to do the same, but their leaders have refused to take telephone calls from Biden. The latter has decided to price oil in Chinese yuan, downgrading the US dollar. American policy confusion was again on display when it cleared a classified telegram to US embassies alleging that India and the UAE were in "Russia's camp" and advised diplomats to aggressively talk this up. After it leaked, the telegram was recalled. If it was deliberately leaked to convey a threat, then the ploy failed. India continued to abstain at the UN.

Both Russia and Ukraine are major exporters of agricultural products, chemicals and metals, and disruption in supplies has raised prices of wheat, soybean, sunflower oil, fertiliser, copper, steel and aluminium in world markets. While rising prices of these vital commodities will add to the import bill, on the flip side, India can profit from higher prices on wheat and maize exports. Prices of edible oil have already skyrocketed and will impact domestic costs. These prices will benefit mustard farmers.

> Zelenskyy has become the darling of the Western media. Meanwhile, Russia has presented evidence at the UNSC that the US was funding biowarfare research in Ukrainian biolabs. America has denied this as propaganda but suspicion about such clandestine research refuses to go away

Cotton sales will get a boost since prices of petroleum-based fibres will increase. Fertiliser costs have risen and alternate suppliers have to be tapped at higher prices. Costs of raw materials and intermediates like ammonia, phosphoric acid, etc., have also risen. Our rupee has fallen against the US dollar. On the fiscal side, the main impact will be on current account deficit and inflation. Aviation and tourism will again face headwinds due to higher fuel costs and airspace restrictions imposed by sanctions. Pharma and tea exports will be hit as Russia and Ukraine are top destinations.

Unilateral Western sanctions will not be the deciding factor in stopping the war. Russia is not a small country but sanctions will deliver a huge blow to her economy. Russia has called the sanctions the equivalent of a financial nuclear attack. Sanctions are always a double-edged sword; they extract costs on both sides and ultimately impact the common people and the poor. The geopolitical contestation unleashed by the Ukraine war is inexorably hollowing out the so-called rules-based international order, an euphemism for US-led Western hegemony. Unilateral impositions of sanctions against Russia and the adverse impact on other countries will add impetus to developing alternate global structures that are immune to Western sanctions.

Biden's attempt to cajole, browbeat and threaten China has not succeeded. China and Russia have rejected Western charges that Moscow has appealed to Beijing for economic and military assistance. China has to balance her extensive economic ties with the Western world and after the recent virtual Biden-Xi summit, it has clearly put the blame on the US—"those who put the bell on the tiger must remove it" and "you cannot clap with one hand". China wants the Quad disbanded and her actions against Taiwan insulated from any retaliation. Moscow will, henceforth, be hugely dependent on China economically, giving Beijing the leverage to extract Russian weaponry and technology. This is bad news for both India and the US.

India faces a major foreign policy challenge. The big dilemma is the defence and tech relationship with Russia. India's military is dependent on Russian weaponry to the extent of at least 50%. Russia also supplies to us sensitive technologies that Western countries have consistently denied. This is a special relationship. As a trading partner, however, Russia is at the level of Bangladesh, with an annual turnover of around $10 billion. India's challenge is to create a large measure of self-sufficiency in defence production and other critical areas that impinge on national security, which will take years to fructify.

IS IT POSSIBLE TO VACCINATE A CORPORATION?

R GOPALAKRISHNAN

Bestselling author and corporate advisor

BUILDING BUSINESSES

Vaccination protects a human being from invisible diseases. Corporations also suffer the ravages of invisible diseases arising from deficient people power and employee negativity. If you had access to the right vaccine, it must be possible to strengthen corporate immunology. Corporate crises demonstrate that, like humans, organisations also need to guard against invisible attacks. We cannot assure thriving human or organisational health by ignoring invisible attackers.

I recommend a very effective vaccine to neutralise an invisible attack on companies. This vaccine is called People Shield. It deploys the DNA of people power against infection from invisible attackers.

Reflective executives should plan their future agenda. The focus on unleashing people power can appear to be a soft remedy, centering around passion, culture and positivity. But engaged people are the best immunity as long-life companies like Godrej, Bajaj, Unilever and Tata have demonstrated.

Collaborating with academics from Bhavan's SPJIMR, Mumbai, I have just completed a three-year applied research project on "Shapers of Institutions". We formulated a model that we call the 3*5 Mindset-Behaviour-Action Grid. This means shapers of institutions, as distinct from good leaders of good firms, consistently practise three Mindset-Behaviour-Actions and judiciously choose some of the five other MBAs. The most important and visible feature of the compulsory three is People MBA, followed by Thinking MBA and Vision MBA.

The research findings and the company narratives of HDFC Group, Kotak Bank, Marico, L&T, Biocon and TCS have been captured in six books published in 2020/21.

A company is prone to virus-like attacks like employee disengagement, inconsistent leadership behaviour, festering grievances and negativity in the workplace. For too many years, managers have been emphasising efficiency at the expense of human empathy.

To connect immunology with a company, I studied the writings of Prof Michael Watkins, an immunologist-turned-management academic and I was inspired by his writings. The human immune system is an active communication network among a complex set of cells, antibodies and signalling mechanisms. These elements are arranged in three layers: the outermost is the physical layer, like our skin and the mucous system; the second is the innate layer, which is the protective layer of cells that we are born with; finally, there is the adaptive layer, which refers to the mechanisms that recognise and respond to an attack.

What are the equivalents for a company? Corporate immunity is provided by engaged and responsive people, arranged in three layers: 1) The physical layer, people's visible passion. 2) The innate layer, taken-for-granted organisational culture. 3) The adaptive layer, positivity exceeding negativity.

Physical layer—visible passion: A highly engaged workforce is the physical layer of company immunisation. Engaged employees care for the company deeply, recommend it to non-employees, work collaboratively and emotionally guard the firm against attackers. Data for the last decade and a half shows that in most companies, employee engagement has steadily declined. This is an unfavourable trend.

> A company is prone to virus-like attacks like employee disengagement, inconsistent leadership behaviour, festering grievances and negativity in the workplace. For too many years, managers have been emphasising efficiency at the expense of human empathy

As an example of engaged employees in action, recall the fabulous response of Taj Hotel employees during the terrorist attack of 26/11.

Innate layer—culture: The human immune system works by recognising what is 'self' and 'non-self', and by maintaining an equilibrium between over-reaction and under-reaction. Every organisation has a political system and culture, which defines what is perceived as 'self.' Culture acts as the innate layer of the immune system, by preventing destructive thinking from invading the company.

Every company has an articulated or implicit corporate purpose, which is the basis for the employees' concept of 'self'. For example, in normal times, technologists and infrastructure-oriented managers scoff at consumer marketers and makers of soap or toilet cleaners. During Covid times, employees in Unilever got a sense of renewed purpose, just as hospitals and medical professionals did.

Adaptive layer—positivity: Psychology professor Barbara Fredrickson is a thought leader in positive psychology. When the ratio of positivity to negativity exceeds three, then employees are positive and build resilience to adversity. According to her, in the case of 80% of employees in the US, the ratio is less than three; I wonder about Indian employees. She has developed a technique to measure positivity and negativity. In my experience, when leaders visibly practice good listening and empathy, positivity rises.

Humans fight invasive threats through an adaptive mechanism—the brain and the senses, analogous to top leadership and the far ends of the organisation respectively. The signals of external attack are first sensed at the periphery, that is, front-line salesmen and the factory workers. Organisations must sharpen their listening and response mechanisms; they must welcome diverse expert opinions. That is how the management can secure employee engagement and positivity, just as WHO recommends community involvement as the most important response to Covid.

Managers of the future should reflect on how to administer three jabs of People Shield to their employees and ecosystem—visible passion, purposeful culture and huge positivity. It is worthwhile for managers and agents of change in all realms to reflect on what they should do about this. Leaving it as a top leadership agenda is a mistake.

Act against perpetrators

The author has exposed the hypocrisy of Abdullahs and left-liberals who hold candlelight marches at the drop of a hat (With Kashmir film, the pseudo-secular dam has now burst, March 23). The article is a point-by-point rebuttal to the arguments raised by insensitive communalists posing as liberals. The inaction of the then governments, both at the Centre and state, when the genocide happened must be condemned by all. It is as if the lives of Hindus do not matter. Apologists for Muslim jihadists are still in denial mode. If perpetrators of the anti-Sikh pogrom and communal riots in Gujarat and elsewhere can be brought to book, then why is no action taken against those who were responsible for this genocide?

No one averse to truth

The film, The Kashmir Files, has been widely promoted by the ruling party led by the PM with a claim that a section of the "ecosystem" is against knowing the truth. If the truth has to be told, it is important to incorporate the stories of both the sections of the people in the Valley, as they are all victims of terror acts. While no one is against knowing the truth, the way some ruling party leaders are promoting hatred has now escalated to a whole new level. Is this the kind of dam burst that we want?

Efforts for namesake

The Congress high command seems to have begun its mission of conciliation and appeasement with the rebels and G-23 group. However, the present reconciliation efforts are only cosmetic and just skin-deep. The party's leaders seem to talk about everything except the elephant in the room. Even if a Congress presidential election were to be held now, it may only be a farcical one with rigging making sure the leadership is still with a scion of the Gandhi-Nehru family.

Reassuring news from US

The news that an Indian-origin airman, Darshan Shah, was allowed to sport a tilak while in uniform in America is really reassuring (Indian-origin airman allowed to sport tilak in US, March 23). According to Shah, they are allowed to practice the faith they want. This is in contrast to the situation in India where the people are not free to select their food, dress, language, etc., even in civilian life.

PART-1

IN the early 1990s, Francis Fukuyama proclaimed that with the liberal democracy and the free market economy of the West finally emerging as a one-size-fits-all model for all nations, all conflicts that were the source of history had ended. That became the "mool-mantra" of globalisation. Fukuyama ambitiously saw the convergence of the conflicting opposites — Free Market and Liberal State with Communism and Stateless Marxism — as the end of history leading to the perfect society-State envisioned by Hegel, the 18th century German philosopher. How? It calls for a recall of the short socio-political history since Fukuyama wrote his thesis.

Faking "End of history"

Hegel viewed human history as a continuous struggle between opposing ideas till all conflicts get synthesised finally into the perfect State. Karl Marx adopted the Hegelian process to understand the historic struggle of the human race from slavery to feudalism and to capitalism, and concluded that the Hegelian perfect State would be Stateless communism. Fukuyama made one small change to Karl Marx and said that the perfect State would be the Stateless free market, nicknamed globalisation. With the title of his book End of History itself declaring that the history of conflicts had ended, Fukuyama proclaimed that the Hegelian goal of a perfect nation-state was almost at hand. Through the attractive package of globalisation that assured prosperity for all, the West made the Rest believe that with the end of cold war, all conflicts had ended and the naive world believed it. But the short 30-year history since the prophecy on the end of history shows that neither could communism that Marx held out as the only way for the future to obliterate the past history, nor could the free market capitalism that was held out as the highway for the future, forget it. The Ukraine war has exploded the myth that the history of conflicts had ended or could ever end. It proves that the human propensity for conflict is so inherent that no ideology can subside or subsume it. The power of history to return to run over the human race is clearly unstoppable. The promise held out by the West, particularly the US, that the cold war was over was

The Ukraine war has exploded the myth that the history of conflicts had ended... It proves that the human propensity for conflict is so inherent that no ideology can subside or subsume it false, intended to fake the end of history. Coming to the real world in recent history, the continuation of the NATO alliance was itself a remnant of the cold war. But, Russia had ignored it. With the eastward expansion of the NATO alliance from the late 1990s, bringing in some 15 countries into it, Putin clearly saw the embers of cold war beneath the US moves. Russia had truthfully moved away from the cold war psyche in the 1990s, but the US did not. This explains what created the Vladimir Putin we see today. Here is a brief recall of how history did it.

"America created Putin"

Russian-born French journalist Vladimir Pozner explained to Yale University in a brilliant lecture way back in 2018 how the US created Vladimir Putin. Pozner said all efforts of Russia under Mikhail Gorbachev and Boris Yeltsin for harmonious relations with the US and the West failed. Why? He says an Under Secretary's note in 1997 had convinced the euphoric US that it should not ever allow anyone again to challenge its supremacy. That started the eastward expansion of NATO. George Kennan, an acclaimed US foreign policy strategist, wrote in Foreign Affairs magazine under the pseudonym "X" in 1998 that it signalled the restart of the cold war. Despite fierce opposition from Putin, in 1999, Poland, Hungary and Czech Republic joined NATO. Keen to avoid the NATO vs Russia scenario that was bound to reignite cold war, and saying that Russia was part of European culture, Putin even offered to join NATO in 2001. "One has to apply to be our member, NATO doesn't invite," responded the arrogant NATO. Putin was even willing to join the EU, Posner said. But the US, keen to be the sole power, was not ready to share power with Russia. In 2004, street protests, popularly known as orange protests, took place in Ukraine. Putin suspected the West was engineering pro-West democracy elements at its door. As if to confirm it, within months, seven central and east European countries — Bulgaria, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Romania, Slovakia and Slovenia — joined and the expanded NATO. With Estonia and Latvia right on Russia's border, Putin was convinced that the end of cold war was fake history. Albania and Croatia joined NATO in 2009, Montenegro in 2017 and North Macedonia in 2020. It needed no seer to say that NATO expansion was aimed at Russia and was a clear threat to it. In 2014, when pro-democracy protests rocked Ukraine, Crimea, an autonomous region, two-thirds of whose population comprises Russians, joined Russia under a disputed referendum preceded by Russian occupation. The Crimean action led to a greater divide between Russia and the West. Now come to Ukraine.

Root cause

From the mid-17th century Ukraine was part of the Russian Tsardom. The modern Ukraine culture is dominantly Russian. Nikita Khrushchev, former USSR chief, was born almost in Ukraine. He loved Ukraine so much that he merged Crimea with Ukraine province in 1954. On the break-up of the Soviet Union in 1994, Ukraine declared itself as a neutral state with limited military partnership with Russia on the one hand and with NATO nations on the other. When in 2013 the Ukraine government opted for closer relations with Russia, there were mass protests that led to the overthrow of the Ukraine government. The result was the partition of Ukraine and the annexation of Crimea by Russia. Despite its complexities, till 2013, in form at least, Ukraine was neutral between Russia and NATO. But in 2014 the US began manoeuvres to de-neutralise Ukraine, which shares a 2,300 km border with Russia, and to integrate it with NATO. That is the root cause of the ongoing war.

Leading American thinkers opposed the US effort. Opposing Ukraine's admission into NATO, Henry Kissinger said in 2014, "To Russia, Ukraine can never be a foreign country." Besides Kennan, Pozner and Kissinger, US experts like John Mearsheimer, leading geopolitical mind, Jack F Matlock Jr, US Ambassador to USSR, former US defence secretaries William Perry Bill and Bob Gates, Stephen Cohen, renowned scholar on Russian studies, Bill Burns, CIA director, and many others had said they were against Ukraine joining NATO. But with Ukraine allowing dual citizenship, 80 per cent of all Ukraine officials now are said to be American citizens. Is any further proof needed that Ukraine is operated by the US? All that Putin wanted so as to avoid war was an assurance from the US and West that Ukraine would remain neutral and not be made a NATO member. But the West underestimated the nationalist Putin it had created and thought he would not dare a war. But it is a public secret that the post-2008 US and the West are considerably weaker than they were before 2008. Putin knew that if he could keep China neutral he could go to war. And that is what he did. Reports say that Russia deferred the Ukraine action to enable China to complete its winter Olympics. Result was that, by sheer misjudgement, the US invited Putin for war and pushed Ukraine into it. From the battlefield, Ukraine is crying for "NATO intervention" and seeking a "No-fly zone". The West is only shouting slogans, but doing nothing that Ukraine wants. The West has left Ukraine high and dry. Why?

Russia's mission, US confusion

Pozner said that like Americans, Russians believe they have a mission. But Russia is clear about its mission. For that, it knows first it has to pro-

Till 2013, in form at least, Ukraine was neutral. But in 2014 the US began manoeuvres to de-neutralise Ukraine and to integrate it with NATO. That is the root cause of the ongoing war tect itself. But, deeply divided from within, the US is confused about its mission to lead the world. The division within NATO also has added to the confusion of the West. Clear about its mission, right at the start, strategic Russia opened its nuclear options. Insisting that the third World War would be nuclear, it threatened that anyone who assists Ukraine will be at war with Russia. A stunned and speechless West did not know how to respond. Russia was clear that bruised in Iraq, Syria and Afghanistan; the US and the West had no appetite to fight a war for another nation. So, the US and the West had to resort to trade, economic, and financial sanctions against Russia and force private entities banks, Google, Amazon and Apple to join in. Poor Ukraine is bearing the brunt of the Russian attack. As John Mearsheimer said way back in 2015, the "West is leading Ukraine down the primrose path and the end result is that Ukraine is going to get wrecked and what we are doing is to encourage that outcome." His prophecy is proving to the dot. The only mission in which the West has succeeded is in its narrative that the war is a Russian invasion and that it is killing civilians. Watson Institute estimated the civilian casualties in the wars in Iraq, Syria, Yemen, Pakistan and Afghanistan at almost a million. The civilian casualty in Ukraine till March 15, 2022 according to the UNHCR, is less than 1,000. Yet the Western media shamelessly went racial and lamented that "Ukraine is not Afghanistan or Iraq, it is relatively civilised" — implying the less civilised Afghans and Iraqis could be killed but not the civilised Ukrainians!

The Ukraine war — undoubted return of history — haunts not only Ukraine and Russia but the West and the Rest. The war has already changed all global relations and global rules. It's likely to force more changes and its effect will continue for an indeterminate time on all global partnerships and relations between all nations. The West-led world as we knew it for the last 30 years will hardly resemble the one evolving in the future. About that — The war that has changed all relations and rules — tomorrow.

FTA will boost economies of India, UK, says envoy

Both countries look to double trade by '30

RAMU PATIL @Bengaluru

THE war in Ukraine makes it all the more important for countries like India and the United Kingdom to have more diverse supply chains and the Free Trade Agreement (FTA) is a good way to ensure it, said British High Commissioner to India Alex Ellis on Wednesday.

"An FTA is important for the development of economies of India and the UK," Ellis told The New Indian Express during his visit to Bengaluru.

The two countries are negotiating an FTA and have also set a goal to double the quantum of trade between the two countries by 2030. "We have to respect the past and look ahead and see from a very unique relationship, which the UK and India enjoy, to maximise benefits. The FTA is a great way to look into the future," he said. "We want to look ahead, and that is why we are talking about defence, technological development, research and education. We doubled the number of student visas issued last year to 90,000 from 45,000 a year before," he added.

Measures to further strengthen the relations between the two countries and the situation in Ukraine will come up for discussion during British Foreign Secretary Elizabeth Truss' visit to India next week.

The top diplomat said the foreign secretary will be "focussed on the questions around Ukraine and how to deliver the road map. We (India and the UK) have a plan for ten years, agreed between the two prime ministers (Prime Minister Narendra Modi and UK Premier Boris Johnson)".

On the neutral stand taken by India during the voting in the UN on Ukraine, the High Commissioner said that he wouldn't call it a neutral stand although India abstained from voting, it spoke about the sovereignty of Ukraine and the UN Charter on territorial integrity. The UK and many countries are trying to do their best to prevent Russian President Vladimir Putin from succeeding in what is totally an unprovoked invasion and respect territorial integrity, he said, adding that the credit must go to Ukrainians for their resistance.

Sanctions imposed on Russia are having a big impact, he said. "What is happening in Ukraine is appalling, totally unprovoked, unnecessary and very destructive. You cannot allow autocracies to invade their neighbours unprovoked and you have to find ways to deter and prevent that as well as deal with humanitarian consequences. It (Ukraine war) has shown the power of friends and allies as many countries came forward to support Ukraine in different ways," he added.

For her part, CM Mamata Banerjee assured that the rule of law will take its course. While she claimed no one will be stopped from visiting the crime site, Bengal BJP MLAs led by Suvendu Adhikari said they were prevented from visiting Rampurhat. Reunification of old Janata Dal on cards in Bihar

RAMASHANKAR @Patna

REUNIFICATION of the erstwhile Janata Dal is on the cards in Bihar. After former Union minister and socialist leader Sharad Yadav merged his Loktantrik Janata Dal with Lalu Prasad's Rashtriya Janata Dal (RJD), Devendra Prasad Yadav has returned to the old Janata Dal parivar (family).

A five-time MP from Jhanjharpur, Devendra joined RJD in the presence of Leader of Opposition Tejashwi Prasad Yadav, state RJD chief Jagadanand Singh and national secretary general Abdul Bari Siddiqui. Tejashwi administered the membership oath of RJD to Devendra at the party office.

Devendra announced the merger of his Samajwadi Janata Dal (Democratic) with RJD and said it was time to strengthen the hands of Tejashwi, who is spearheading the fight against BJP in the state. "It is time all secular forces came together to take on BJP and continue the fight for social justice," he asserted.

Devendra had floated a party in 2010 following differences with RJD chief Lalu Prasad. In 2014, he joined the Nitish Kumar-led Janata Dal United (JDU). Devendra enjoyed considerable influence among his caste in Mithilanchal region.

Devendra's joining will boost the morale of party workers in Mithilanchal, said a senior RJD leader on condition of anonymity. "It is like ghar wapsi (returning hime)," said Devendra before leaving the RJD office.

Journos appeal for stopping attack on minorities

ENS @New Delhi

SENIOR journalists from all over India have issued a collective appeal to constitutional institutions to step in and uphold their constitutional mandate in the wake of open calls from various quarters for attacks on India's religious minorities, especially Muslims.

They said India today stands at a dangerous point, with the founding values of a secular, democratic and republican constitution coming under flagrant assault from prejudiced ideas, acts of prejudice, discrimination and violent incidents, all planned and orchestrated as part of an anti-constitutional political project. "That is why it is both urgent and crucial that India's constitutional institutions, and especially the President, the higher judiciary, and the Election Commission, discharge their mandate under our Constitution and that the media perform their responsibility to the people of India by asserting their independence and speaking truth to power," read the appeal signed by at least 28 media personalities including N Ram (former Editor-in-Chief, The Hindu), Mrinal Pande (senior journalist and writer), R Rajagopal (Editor, The Telegraph), Vinod Jose (Executive Editor, Caravan) and others.

They mentioned instances where Muslims were targeted such as at the 'dharam sansad' in Haridwar or the screening of The Kashmir Files. It stated that the concerted amplification of hatred has been growing, with the attendant advocacy of violence.

Voices to probe Pandit exodus grow louder

NC, PDP and BJP seek setting up of commission to probe circumstances that led to the mass migration in 1990s

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

AMID the ongoing controversy over The Kashmir Files, demand for setting up a commission to probe the circumstances that led to mass exodus of Kashmiri Pandits from the Valley in 1990 is getting shriller.

"A commission should be set up to probe the exodus of Kashmiri Pandits from the Valley," PDP chief and former chief minister Mehbooba Mufti told reporters in Srinagar.

"People were caught between the guns of India and Pakistan. People got killed and Kashmiri Pandits too got killed because of it." Taking a dig at the BJP for promoting The Kashmir Files, she said, "Had the PM and the BJP done something for the Pandits in the last eight years, their situation would have been different today."

According to J&K government, 219 Pandits were killed in militancy from 1990 to 2010.

Both National Conference and PDP have been blaming then Governor Jagmohan for the migration of Pandits.

J&K BJP general secretary Ashok Koul, too, demanded setting up of a commission to probe the exodus of Pandits from the Valley. He said a commission headed by a retired judge of the Supreme Court should be formed to probe the exodus. "A white paper should be presented on the exodus of Pandits," Koul said and indirectly blamed the NC for the exodus of Pandits.

"What we are witnessing today is the result of the poll rigging in 1987. Had they not done rigging at that time and not declared the winner a loser, we would not have been facing such a situation as we are witnessing today," he said.

NC president Farooq Abdullah has proposed setting up a Truth and Reconciliation Commission to find out what had happened at that time. "Whatever happened in 1990 was a tragedy. I would like everything to be investigated properly," Abdullah has said.

IAS officer to face action over tweets

Bhopal: The MP government has decided to take action against IAS officer Niyaz Khan over his tweets on 'The Kashmir Files'. "He is crossing his lakshmanrekha as an official. A show cause notice will soon be served to him," Home Minister Narottam Mishra said on Wednesday. In one of his tweets, Khan said: "Kashmir File shows the pain of Brahmins. They should be allowed to live safely in Kashmir with all honour. The producer must also make a movie to show the killings of Muslims across several states."

SC youth abused over comment

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

THE much talked-about film The Kashmir Files is getting all kinds of reactions across the country. In Rajasthan, a bank official from the SC community has become the victim of caste abuse over a comment about the film.

Through a Facebook post, the bank manager had asserted that not just Pandits but many other castes too have faced all kinds of atrocities. Members of some upper caste people forcefully took him to a temple and made him "rub his nose on the floor of the temple." The Alwar police have registered a case against 11 people. Three of them have been arrested.

The case was reported from Alwar district. SC youth Rajesh Kumar Meghwal, a senior sales manager in a private bank, had commented on movie on his Facebook page. He wrote that the film depicts atrocities on Pandits, but atrocities have actually been committed on other castes too. He cited the case of Jitendra Pal Meghwal of Pali who was recently allegedly tortured and murdered by two persons belonging to the upper castes for having a moustache.

Rajesh had also questioned why the movie Jai Bhim was not made tax-free. On Tuesday, the locals called a 'chaupal' at the local temple and Rajesh was also called. He said he was forced to apologise and rub his nose on the temple's floor.

New norms mulled to protect children

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

THE National Commission for Protection of Child Rights (NCPCR) is planning to develop new guidelines to regulate the participation of children working in web series and films on OTT platforms. The guidelines will also cover children working in reality shows, TV programmes and social media.

A meeting is slated for April, in which NCPCR plans to invite all the stakeholders, including officials from various OTT platforms, television channels and social media.

According to NCPCR head Priyank Kanoongo, fresh guidelines are needed as earlier ones are "outdated".

In 2011, the child rights body had come out with guidelines to regulate children's participation and their working conditions in television series, reality shows and advertisements.

But now, it is being felt that there is a need to come out with fresh guidelines as there have been amendments and changes in the Juvenile Justice Act 2015, POSCO Act 2012, IT guidelines and child labour rules.

"We need to incorporate in the new guidelines all the changes that have taken place since 2011," Kanoongo said. "We are planning a meeting in April."

As OTT or Over The Top streaming channels found more viewership during the lockdowns, it was felt that there was a need to come out with fresh guidelines that safeguards the rights of the children appearing in these web series, which are still unregulated.

Kanoongo said the need for formulating fresh guidelines was felt after a consensus emerged at a workshop attended by representatives of state child rights bodies in Bhopal.

Lalu back in AIIMS soon after getting discharged

ANKITA UPADHYAY @ New Delhi

RJD patriarch Lalu Yadav was readmitted at the All India Institute of Medical Science (AIIMS) in Delhi on Wednesday after being discharged in the wee hours — around 3 am.

According to sources, he was admitted in the Emergency ward on Tuesday night, but was declared fit hours later and asked to go back to the Rajendra Institute of Medical Sciences (RIIMS) in Ranchi, where he is being treated.

"He came at 9 pm on Tuesday and went to Emergency. After a few tests it was found that he is fit and then he was discharged at 3.30 am," said sources. Lalu suffers from multiple ailments, including renal and cardiac issues.

At present, he is admitted in the Old Private Ward and is under the observation of Dr Dipankar Bhowmik, Professor of Nephrology at AIIMS. According to doctors, he is responding to clinical treatment. "Lalu Yadav's creatinine level has increased. Blood sugar and blood pressure have been fluctuating. The sugar level is hovering between 150 and 200 mg/dl," said a senior doctor. "His kidney is functioning at 15-20% capacity," another doctor said on Tuesday.

According to sources, VIP protocol was not followed by the institute and Yadav was discharged despite being sick.

AAP 'CHANAKYA' IN PUNJAB TO FOCUS ON GUJARAT NOW

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

AFTER its historic poll victory in Punjab, the Aam Aadmi Party has its eyes set on Gujarat, where Assembly elections are due later this year. To replicate the success of Punjab in PM Modi's home state, the Arvind Kejriwal-led party has deployed former IIT-Delhi professor Sandeep Pathak, credited as the 'Chanakya' behind AAP's spectacular success in Punjab, as incharge of the state.

On a mission to expand its national footprint, the AAP has announced office-bearers for several states. But Gujarat tops the party's priority list where Kejriwal and Punjab CM Bhagwant Mann are expected to sound the poll bugle with a 'Tiranga Yatra' in eastern parts of Ahmedabad, dominated by Patidars and Hindi-speaking migrants, middle and lower-middle-class population.

Ahead of their visit, Kejriwal has deputed Pathak to start preparing the groundwork. "He has worked in Punjab for three years and because of his hard work, the party won a historic mandate," said AAP spokesperson Yogesh Jadvani.

"This will give a big boost to the local organisation and helps us prepare our poll strategy," Jadvani said, referring to the appointments of Pathak as Gujarat in-charge and Gulab Singh Yadav as campaign in-charge. "Pathak will visit Gujarat this week and take stock of the poll preparations."

Experts believe the two leaders will try to draw out politicians from other parties to expand the party's base in Gujarat. AAP's priority is to replace Congress in the opposition benches and then grab power from the BJP, said political analyst Dilip Patel.

BJP claims mass crossover of Gujarat AAP leaders

Ahmedabad: The ruling BJP in Gujarat claimed that hundreds of members of the AAP joined the party in Gandhinagar on Wednesday, days ahead of AAP chief Arvind Kejriwal's visit to Ahmedabad. Local AAP leaders, however, rubbished the claim.

Congress takes 'Gandhian path' to win election

After its abysmal poll show in five states, Congress is focussing on Gujarat polls.

Gujarat Congress spokesperson Manish Doshi said, "As part of commemorating the 75th year of India's Independence, Congress will take out two padayatras to highlight its contributions in the freedom struggle and spread the message of communal harmony. One of them the 'Gandhi Gaurav Yatra' will begin from Ahmedabad on April 6 and will end in Delhi on June 1."

India is essential partner: US official

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

A day after US President Joe Biden said India was "shaky" in acting against Russia, US officials said India was an "essential partner" for the country in the QUAD.

"In terms of India's place in the QUAD, in terms of our relationship with India in the QUAD context and the bilateral context, we know that India is an essential partner for us in realising our shared vision of a free and open Indo-Pacific. That is really at the heart of the QUAD's goals," said Ned Price, spokesperson of US State Department.

Price said that just before the March 3 virtual meeting of the QUAD leaders, US Secretary of State Antony Blinken had met with External Affairs Minister Dr S Jaishankar and reaffirmed their commitment to a free and open Indo-Pacific in which the sovereignty and territorial integrity of all states are respected and countries are free from military, economic and political coercion.

"In fact, we heard that emanating from the leaders' call on March 3. These are principles that we share with our QUAD partners. They also reaffirmed their dedication to the QUAD as a mechanism to promote regional stability and security," Price added.

Polls still away, J&K parties start promising freebies and populist measures

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Srinagar

Even as the Assembly election in Jammu and Kashmir is still seven to eight months away, political parties have begun announcing populist measures to garner support.

J&K BJP chief Ravindra Raina while addressing party workers in the border district of Rajouri announced that if voted to power, the BJP government would give free electricity and water to the poor in J&K. He also announced that ₹1,000 would be given every month to women of poor families. "We will also give a monthly stipend to educated boys and girls of J&K," Raina said.

He claimed the BJP would form the next government in J&K and the next CM would be from the saffron party.

J&K Apni Party president Altaf Bukhari, too, announced sops for people if his party is voted to power. Bukhari, an influential businessman, announced that if his party is voted to power, it would restore the half yearly Durbar Move. The 148-year-old practice ended last year after the L-G administration decided against continuing the practice.

Bukhari said if voted to power, Apni Party government will provide free power during both winter and summer. "We will also increase health insurance from ₹5 lakh to ₹10 lakh and safeguard the rights of locals in employment, resources and other sectors," he said.

Other political parties are yet to announce poll sops.

Back in a big way: CM inaugurates Bihar Diwas

The three-day celebrations of Bihar Diwas, which kicks off on March 22 every year, began across the state on Tuesday. This year's function is based on the theme of 'Jal-Jivan-Hariyali', an ambitious project of the state for which a provision of `24,524 crore has been made in the state's budget for the 2022-23 fiscal. The main function is being held at the historic Gandhi Maidan, which was inaugurated by Chief Minister Nitish Kumar. Highlighting the achievements of the NDA government, the CM said the state has progressed leaps and bounds during his 16-year tenure. Bihar Diwas is back in a big way, after just symbolic celebrations in the last two years.

In addition, a proposal to equip 531 gram panchayats with computers has also been approved by the Union Ministry of Panchayati Raj as part of its Rashtriya Gram Swaraj Abhiyan. A total of 547 gram panchayats in Bihar have not been computerised as yet, said Union Minister of State for Panchayati Raj Kapil Moreshwar Patil in a written reply in the Lok Sabha. He, however, clarified that no timeline can be framed for the saturation of computerisation in the gram panchayats. The grants released under 15th Finance Commission can also be utilised for the purpose.

MP raises air travel woes of Gopalganj in Lok Sabha

Hopes have been rekindled of air travel facilities in Gopalganj and neighbouring districts after JDU MP from Gopalganj Santosh Kumar Suman submitted a question related to begin air flight operations from the Sabeya airport during the budget session of the Lok Sabha recently. He pleaded for providing air facilities to the people of the area from the Sabeya airport on 'demand for grant' basis. The airport has its 338.66 acres of land. However, 1,011 people have encroached the land of the airport as per a report released by the Union Ministry of Home Affairs. Non-resident workers hailing from Gopalganj, Siwan and Saran districts work abroad – especially in the Gulf.

DEFIANT UKRAINE FIGHTS ON, MAKES MOSCOW PAY HIGH PRICE

Ukraine prez says thousands, including 121 children, killed in four weeks of war • Putin's forces are facing serious shortage of food, fuel and cold weather gear

KYIV

ONE month of war, still defiant. With its government still standing and its outnumbered troops battling Russian forces to bloody stalemates on multiple fronts, Ukraine is scarred, wounded and mourning its dead but far from beaten.

When Russia unleashed its invasion on February 24 in Europe's biggest offensive since World War II and brandished the prospect of nuclear escalation if the West intervened, a lightning-swift toppling of Ukraine's democratically elected government seemed likely.

But with Wednesday marking four full weeks of fighting, Russia is bogged down in a grinding military campaign, with untold numbers of dead, no immediate end in sight, and its economy crippled by Western sanctions. US President Joe Biden and key allies are meeting in Brussels and Warsaw this week to discuss possible new punitive measures and more military aid to Ukraine.

Our people cannot even adequately bury their murdered relatives, friends and neighbours. They have to be buried right in the yards of destroyed buildings

Volodymyr Zelenskyy, Ukrainian President

As Biden left the White House on Wednesday for the flight to Europe, he warned there is a 'real threat' Russia could use chemical weapons and said he will discuss that danger with the other leaders.

The war's economic and geopolitical shockwaves — with soaring energy prices, fears for global food supplies, and Russia and China aligning in a new world order with echoes of the Cold War — have reverberated across a planet yet to emerge from the Covid crisis.

With his olive-drab T-shirts, unshaven face and impassioned appeals to governments around the world for help, Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy has been transformed into a wartime leader and Russian President Vladimir Putin's Number 1 antagonist. Addressing Japan's parliament on Wednesday, Zelenskyy said four weeks of war have killed thousands, including at least 121 of Ukraine's children.

Repeatedly pushed back by hit-and-run Ukrainian units armed with Western-supplied weapons, Russian troops are shelling targets from afar, falling back on tactics they used in reducing cities to ruins in Syria and Chechnya.

Major Russian objectives remain unfulfilled. The capital, Kyiv, has been repeatedly hit but not taken or even encircled.

More shelling and gunfire shook the city on Wednesday. A shopping mall and other buildings were hit, injuring four people, city officials said. Mayor Vitali Klitschko, said at least 264 civilians have been killed in the capital since war broke out. In the south, the port city of Mariupol has seen the worst devastation, under weeks of siege and bombardment. But Ukrainian forces have prevented its fall.

Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov insisted that the military operation is going 'strictly in accordance with the plans and purposes that were established beforehand.'

But as casualties mount and quick victory is no longer in sight, Russia is having to work to shore up morale. Western officials say Ukrainian resistance has halted much of Russia's advance and that Putin's forces are facing serious shortages of food, fuel and cold weather gear, with some soldiers suffering frostbite. Russia's military casualties are unclear, but even conservative estimates by Western officials are in the low thousands. AP

EU proposes package to aid farmers weather war

Brussels: The EU European Commission on Wednesday proposed an aid package of 500 million euros ($549 million) to help food producers in the bloc weather the economic impact of the war in Ukraine. It said the proposed aid would be distributed in national allocations. The plan would also authorise EU countries to supplement the bloc's support by up to 200 per cent through their own contributions.

NATO: 7k to 15k Russian troops dead

Kyiv: NATO is estimating that 7,000 to 15,000 Russian soldiers have been killed in a month of fighting in Ukraine. A senior NATO military official said on Wednesday the estimate was based on information from Ukrainian officials, what Russia has released — intentionally or not — and intelligence gathered from open sources.

Poland wants 45 Russian 'spies' gone

Warsaw: Poland has identified 45 Russian intelligence officers using diplomatic status as cover to stay in the country and authorities are seeking to expel them. Poland's Internal Security Agency says it's asking the Foreign Ministry to urgently remove the Russians, who were described as a danger to Poland's security, from the country.

EU wants gas storage topped up to curb reliance on Russia

Brussels: The EU's executive arm on Wednesday proposed that all natural gas storage facilities in the 27-nation bloc be topped up to at least 80% capacity for next winter as it seeks to reduce reliance on Russian energy. On the eve of a two-day summit of EU leaders, the European Commission said another price crisis will leave millions of EU citizens with bills they cannot pay. However, energy experts say filling reserves when the natural gas market is tight will mean higher prices for consumers.

IEA fears climate goals may suffer due to war

Paris: The International Energy Agency (IEA) voiced concern that Russia's war in Ukraine could scuttle efforts to fight climate change. "It is vital that governments ensure that we keep the lights on, but this doesn't mean we can turn off our efforts to tackle climate change," IEA executive director Fatih Birol said at the opening of a meeting of energy ministers in Paris held on Wednesday.

Chemical attack by Russia is a real threat, says Joe Biden

WASHINGTON

US PRESIDENT Joe Biden has left the White House for a four-day trip to Europe, where he will meet with key allies to discuss Russia's invasion of Ukraine.

As he departed on Wednesday, Biden told reporters the possibility that Russia could use chemical weapons in the Ukraine war is a 'real threat.' He said he would say more on the subject directly to the leaders he was meeting with on Thursday. There are fears that Russia could use chemical or nuclear weapons as its invasion stalls amid logistical problems and fierce Ukrainian resistance.

Biden's first stop is Brussels, where he'll attend a hastily arranged emergency NATO summit. He will also participate in meetings of the European Union and the Group of Seven, which includes the world's richest democracies.

Jake Sullivan, Biden's national security adviser, said the president would coordinate with allies on military assistance for Ukraine and new sanctions on Russia. He said Biden is working on long-term efforts to boost defenses in Eastern Europe, where more countries fear Russian aggression. AP

Tornado rips through New Orleans, kills 1

ARABI (US)

A TORNADO tore through parts of New Orleans and its suburbs Tuesday night, flipping cars, ripping roofs off homes and killing at least one person in a region that was pummeled by Hurricane Katrina 17 years ago.

Parts of St Bernard Parish, which borders New Orleans to the southeast, appeared to take the brunt of the weather's fury, and that is where the fatality occurred. St. Bernard Parish officials gave no details on how the person died; they said multiple other people were injured.

Rescue workers were searching through the suburban parish for more people in need of assistance, according to Sheriff Jimmy Pohlmann. St. Bernard Parish President Guy McInnis said the tornado caused widespread damage throughout the parish. Other tornadoes spawned by the same storm system had hit parts of Texas and Oklahoma, killing one person Monday and causing multiple injuries and widespread damage.

One black box of crashed Chinese plane found

BEIJING

ONE of the two black boxes of the crashed China Eastern Airlines plane was found on Wednesday in "severely damaged" condition by rescuers combing the site in vast forest mountainous area in southern China, amid fears that none of the 132 people on board survived.

Two days on, distressing videos have emerged showing the Boeing 737-800 on a domestic flight nose-dived into the mountains on Monday crashing with an explosion leaving its debris in a vast forested area making rescue efforts difficult.

A black box, which officials said is believed to be the cockpit recorder of the crashed passenger plane, was recovered by rescuers on Wednesday.

Mao Yanfeng, head of the aviation accident investigation centre of the Civil Aviation Administration of China, told the media at Nanning, provincial headquarters of Guangxi from where the rescue operations were being directed by officials, that the black box was severely damaged. "We hope to retrieve both black boxes of the aircraft soon and then send them to professional labs for decoding," Mao said, adding that this is crucial to finding the cause of the crash.

The crashed airliner had two black boxes, one in the cockpit and one in the tail to record various data, according to the official media here.

The search for the black boxes is one of the key tasks of the investigation team. Aircraft black boxes are generally in bright orange-red so they can be found quickly after a flight accident. They are built to withstand explosions, disintegration, high temperature combustion, immersion in water and other damage, and the battery lasts for about 30 days.

Rain complicated the rescue and search efforts earlier on Wednesday. However, the search for the 132 people on board the aircraft and the other black box is underway. There is no official word on their fate.

Rescuers used professional equipment to detect the underground area of the crash site. Parts of the wreckage and some human tissues were recovered, officials said. PTI

Plane pulled up in 1st dive, then crashed

New data suggests China Eastern Airlines flight MU5735 pulled up in its first dive before the second one sent it crashing. Data provided by FlightRadar24 depicts apparent battle to control the plane, as initial dive stopped 7,425 feet above the ground. After climbing briefly, a second high-speed dive began, sending the plane into the ground 30 seconds later.

Taliban cancels girls' higher edu despite pledges

KABUL

AFGHANISTAN'S Taliban rulers decided against opening schools to girls above the sixth grade, reneging on a previous promise and opting to appease their hardline base at the expense of further alienating the international community.

The unexpected decision came at the start of the new school year in Afghanistan. It is bound to disrupt Taliban efforts to win recognition from potential international donors, at a time when the country is mired in a worsening humanitarian crisis. The international community has been urging Taliban to open schools and give women their right to public space. A statement by the ministry earlier urged 'all students' to come to school.

The decision to postpone a return of girls going to school in higher levels appeared to be a concession to the rural and deeply tribal backbone of the hardline Taliban movement, that in many parts of the countryside are reluctant to send their daughters to school.

The decision to cancel the return of girls to school came late in the night on Tuesday, Waheedullah Hashmi, external relations and donor representative with the Taliban-led administration, told The Associated Press.

"It was late last night that we received word from our leadership that schools will stay closed for girls," said Hashmi. "We don't say they will be closed forever."

The surprise decision also comes as the movement's leadership has been summoned to southern Kandahar by the reclusive Taliban leader, Haibatullah Akhunzada, amid reports of a cabinet shakeup.

There have been persistent reports since the Taliban swept to power in August of differences among the senior leadership, with the more hardline among the movement at odds with the pragmatists. The pragmatists reportedly want to see a greater engagement with the world and while staying true to their Islamic beliefs be less harsh than when they last ruled Afghanistan, banning women from work and girls from schools. AP

'No future of 10-min food delivery'

VCs, restaurant owners point out many challenges in the 10-minute delivery services

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

VENTURE capitalists (VCs), gig workers' association and National Restaurant Association of India (NRAI) are questioning the future of this 10-minute delivery offering. At present, if you order food, irrespective of delivery platforms, it takes at least 30-45 minutes to arrive at your doorsteps.

Food delivery company Zomato recently announced Zomato Instant, which promises food delivery in 10-minutes. With Zomato Instant, Zomato CEO Deepinder Goyal promises only 3-6 minutes of travel time. This 10-minute delivery time is not new to the quick commerce segment. Both Zepto and Blinkit (backed by Zomato) offer 10-minute grocery delivery service. Even Swiggy through Instamart has entered into the grocery delivery space, and it promises delivery in 15 minutes.

"The 10-minute delivery model has not yet become successful in the grocery category itself. It comes with many challenges on the ground which are beyond the control of a platform provider such as Zomato," said Mohamad Faraz, Founding Partner, Upsparks, a micro VC firm.

He added that the food category, which has quality very closely linked to customer experience, is going to be practically difficult to scale as a business model. Quick commerce companies have been experimenting with this concept but it does not seem to be sustainable.

Zomato should understand the pressure and stress it creates with these new services, said Shaik Salauddin, National General Secretary of Indian Federation of App-based Transport Workers (IFAT).

Zomato's delivery partners said they work for 12 hours, and they deliver food in 30 minutes. For every food delivery, they receive ₹30, and they deliver at least 30-50 orders a day.

There are more pressing challenges that tech and tech start-ups can solve, instead of 10-minutes food delivery. Zomato Instant is a forced habit being developed that is bordering on risks or hazards for the ghost-kitchen/restaurant and the delivery person, said Ajay Ramasubramaniam, Founder and CEO, Startup Reseau.

He added In India, under 10% internet users order food online and the market size is roughly $8 billion, compared to a $51 billion market like China where nearly 53% internet users order food online.

IT SEARCH

I-T RAID AT HERO MOTO CORP MD'S HOME, OFFICE

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

THE Income Tax Department (I-T Dept) on Wednesday conducted searches on several premises linked to Hero MotoCorp Chairman Pawan Munjal and other senior executives of the company over allegations of tax evasion.

Hero MotoCorp is India's largest two-wheeler maker and has presence across 40 countries in Asia, Africa, Central and Latin America.

A team of income tax officials were looking at financial documents and other business transactions of the company and the promoters. The search was carried out in offices and residential premises of Munjal in Gurugram, Delhi and few other locations.

Hero MotoCorp admitted that officials from the Income Tax department visited two of their offices in Delhi and Gurugram and the residence of Chairman & CEO Pawan Munjal on Wednesday. The company said this is a routine inquiry, which is not uncommon before the end of the financial year. It reassured its stakeholders that it continues to be business as usual.

"We at Hero MotoCorp are an ethical and law-abiding corporate, and maintain the highest standards of impeccable corporate governance. In keeping with this philosophy, we are extending our full cooperation to the authorities," said Hero MotoCorp in a statement.

Share prices of Hero MotoCorp fell as much as 4% intraday on Wednesday. It recovered marginally later to close the trading session at ₹2,394, down 1.22%.

In the past few days, I-T Dept has conducted search operations at multiple leading business houses. On Tuesday, the officials of the department raided Mumbai based real estate firm Hiranandani Group for offshore funds while on March 14, an intensive search was carried out at New Delhi based Omaxe Group.

I-T Dept said that there is evidence that the real estate group Omaxe is allegedly indulged in "unaccounted" cash transactions with customers to the tune of over ₹3,000 crore.

Petrol, diesel prices hiked 80 paise, again

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

AFTER four and half months of hiatus, the Oil Marketing Companies (OMCs) on Tuesday have increased the price of Petrol and diesel by 80 paise a litre each. The price was on a pause for the last 137 days, despite the high crude prices in the international markets.

Now, Petrol in Delhi will cost ₹96.21 a litre as against ₹95.41 previously and diesel will cost ₹87.47 per litre. Simultaneously, price of domestic LPG cylinders has been hiked by ₹50. With this hike, a 14.2 kg non-subsidised LPG will cost customers in New Delhi ₹949.50.

Experts opined that hike on petrol diesel and LPG was on expected lines and its impact will largely show up in the April inflation number. "Retail fuel prices of petrol and diesel have been kept unchanged since November 2021, whereas global crude oil prices rose by close to $30 per barrel during this period. The pass-through of rising crude oil prices to domestic fuel prices is, therefore, inevitable, and further hikes can also be expected," said Dipti Deshpande, Principal Economist, CRISIL Ltd.

The oil price in the International market has been on rise for the past three months, and the ongoing war between Russia and Ukraine only exacerbated between Russia and Ukraine only.

India achieves highest-ever goods export target of $400 billion

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

THE government on Wednesday informed that India has achieved its highest ever goods export target of $400 billion well before the schedule. The merchandise exports from India have crossed $400 billion in this fiscal, 9 days ahead of schedule. The previous highest was $330 billion achieved in 2018-19.

"India set an ambitious target of $400 Billion of goods exports & achieves this target for the first time ever. I congratulate our farmers, weavers, MSMEs, manufacturers, exporters for this success. This is a key milestone in our Aatmanirbhar Bharat journey," tweeted the prime minister.

India's merchandise trade performance has shown impressive growth and exports remained above $30 billion for eleven consecutive months (likely to be twelve consecutive months at the end of March) during April to February.

In December 2021, it recorded the highest-ever monthly merchandise exports at 39.3 billion. Engineering goods exports increased by nearly 50% while exports of cotton yarn/fabrics/made-ups, handloom products etc, gems and Jewellery, other cereals and man-made yarn/fabrics/made-up etc have registered a growth rate between 50%-60%. The export of agricultural commodities such as rice (both basmati and non-basmati), marine products, wheat, spices and sugar, among others witnessed a recorded growth in this fiscal. "Despite adversities be it Covid or Russia-Ukraine war, this feat is a true testimony to the sheer determination, capability of our young entrepreneurs, farmers, MSMEs. It's a collective show of strength that India can do it, has done it and will continue to do it," said commerce minister Piyush Goyal.

In FY 2020-2021, India's merchandise export stood at $299.74 billion while in 2020-21 it was $298.1 billion. However, India's merchandise exports had crossed $300 billion in 2011-12 itself, and it took around ten years to reach $400 billion in 2022.

Concerns over Maruti arm's EV investment

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

PROXY advisory firm IiAS has raised serious questions on Suzuki Motor Gujarat (SMC) investment in the EV project instead of Maruti Suzuki (MSIL) doing it directly. It said that Maruti's shareholders must constructively engage with SMC to understand how this structure will work as the company's future is at stake.

Japan's SMC, the parent company of MSIL, on Saturday had signed a memorandum of understanding with the State of Gujarat to invest approximately 150 billion yen (approximately ₹10,440 crore) for local manufacturing of battery electric vehicles (BEV) and BEV batteries.

IiAS (Institutional Investor Advisory Services) said that SMC will argue that this saves Maruti's shareholders the capital, but Maruti had ₹3,000 crore in liquid cash and little debt on its balance sheet on 30 September 2021, meaning investing ₹10,440 crore over the project is unlikely to stress Maruti's financial profile.

It added that the larger issue continues to be this inherent conflict of interest – between owning a 100% subsidiary and having a listed company in the same market. This also makes Maruti a distributor of SMC products.

"These structures make it easier for MNCs to hollow out the listed subsidiary and reduce its value. Maruti's shareholders must constructively engage with SMC to understand how this structure will work... For Maruti, its future may be at stake. It must define its role in the EV venture. A consultation with its stakeholders – as at the time of setting up the Gujarat plant in 2014, will enable Maruti to create a mutually beneficial deal structure and remain relevant," said that proxy advisory firm.

TCS buyback offer gets subscribed 7.5 times

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

INDIA'S second most valuable listed company Tata Consultancy Services (TCS) on Wednesday concluded its ₹18,000-crore share repurchase program.

According to data provided by stock exchanges, the buyback received huge response and about 30.12 crore shares were tendered in the buyback as against the target of 4 crore shares, resulting in over subscription of 7.5 times.

Edelweiss Alternative Research in a note had said that acceptance ratio for retail investors could be 14.3% – meaning one share could get accepted in the buyback for every 7 shares tendered. For non-retail investors, only one share could get accepted for every 108 shares tendered. This time the acceptance ratio is much lower than TCS' previous buybacks.

According to equity market analysts, the attractive buyback price was the primary reason that led to large number of investors tendering their shares. The buyback was done at ₹4,500 per share, a premium of over 21% to TCS' last closing price of ₹3,710. Add to it, TCS' strong fundamentals and tax benefits for shareholders on buybacks also prompted interest among investors.

Commenting on the buyback, Santosh Meena, Head of Research, Swastika Investmart, had said that short-term investors must grab this opportunity and tender their shares. "Even the long-term shareholders should tender their shares as the buyback is tax-free. Long-term shareholders should repurchase the tendered shares from the open market. For the non tendered shares, investors can hold the shares because of the strong fundamentals of the company and strong tailwinds in the IT Sector," said Meena.

The ₹18,000-crore buyback by TCS was the biggest offer by an IT company in India.

Government has no plans for the disinvestment of loss-making BSNL

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE government on Wednesday informed that it has no plans for disinvestment of loss-making Bharat Sanchar Nigam Ltd (BSNL). In a written reply to parliament, the minister of State for Communications Devusinh Chauhan mentioned that there is no delay or deficiency in services provided by BSNL due to the implementation of voluntary retirement scheme (VRS) in early 2020.

"There is no plan under consideration for disinvestment of BSNL," Chauhan said. "The current strength of employees is sufficient for the operation of the state-owned telecom corporation."

BSNL's total immovable assets, including buildings, lands, towers, telecom equipment and non-telecom equipment as of March 31, 2021, add up to ₹89,878 crore (total netblock).

The state owned telco is losing its subscribers to the private players. As of December 31, 2021, the all-India market share of BSNL stood at 9.90% for mobile subscribers, and 15.40% for wired broadband subscribers. "The mobile subscriber base of BSNL has not been decreasing continuously in last 3 years. In case of MTNL, there is slight decrease due to stiff competition and lack of expansion / up-gradation of its network due to its poor financial condition," said Chaudan in a written reply.

To help the loss making telco the government had approved a revival plan for BSNL in October 2019. It includes measures to reduce the staff cost through a VRS for employees of 50 years of age and above, administrative allotment of spectrum for providing 4G services with funding through budgetary allocation among other things.

Sebi gives nod for Shriram City, Shriram Transport merger

RAM SAHGAL @ Mumbai

CHENNAI headquartered-Shriram Group has received capital markets regulator Sebi's approval for the merger of its holding company Shriram Capital and Shriram City Union Finance (SCUF) into Shriram Transport Finance (STFC), creating the country's largest retail NBFC to be christened Shriram Finance.

"The Sebi approval for the merger is through and we expect approvals from IRDAI and RBI in due course before we hit the NCLT for shareholders' nod," said Yalamati Srinivasa Chakravarti, MD & CEO of SCUF. Chakravarti, prospective MD & CEO for Shriram Finance, said the merger would be completed by September-October FY23.

"We (Umesh Revankar and Chakravarti) have met and spoken jointly and separately to investors of both the companies and so far we have got a very positive response from all of them. So we don't anticipate any issue in getting approval from the shareholders," he said. Highlighting the benefits of the merger, Chakravarti cited results of an internal sample study conducted in the past month that revealed how Shriram Finance would be able to sell each other's products more effectively.

"We found between 20% and 30% of STFC customers, depending on the states they operate in, were running trucks for their captive use. They are businessmen who use trucks and we felt that's a segment to which our SME loans can be disbursed. Every customer of STFC would need a two- or four-wheeler for their personal transportation. Here the SCUF SME loan can come in handy. The other product that SCUF has which would be useful to STFC customers would be the gold loan."

Similarly, he added, "within SCUFs SME customers, we have come across a lot of people using commercial vehicles who could be tapped under the merged entity for STFC products, ie basically commercial vehicle loans. They have a business and for transportation of their goods, they use the commercial vehicles, like rice mill owners who operate trucks for transport."

The Sebi approval for the merger is through and we expect approvals from IRDAI and RBI in due course before we hit the NCLT for shareholders' nod

Biz fundamentals robust: Paytm; Stock at new low

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

FACING flak from investors over its poor performance on the bourses, One97 Communications, the parent company of fintech firm Paytm, on Wednesday said that its business fundamentals remain robust and it has no information that may have a bearing on its share prices.

This clarification comes after the Bombay Stock Exchange (BSE) sought a clarification from the company on the sharp fall in its share prices. On Tuesday, when this clarification was sought, shares of One97 Communications tanked 4% to hit an all-time low of ₹541 on the BSE. It continued its downward journey and fell another 4% on Wednesday to close at another all-time low of ₹524.

The stock, since its listing in November 2021, has corrected over 75% when compared with its issue price of ₹2150. Many trade pundits call it as one of the biggest wealth eroders of recent times as its market capitalisation has plummeted from ₹1.39 lakh crore in November 2021 to ₹34,000 crore on Wednesday. One97 communications in its regulatory filing said that the company has been complying with SEBI regulations.

"Further, as on date, there is no information/announcement, which in our opinion may have a bearing on the price/ volume behaviour in the scrip of the Company and which is yet not disclosed to the Stock Exchanges. The Company would also like to point out that the business fundamentals remain robust as demonstrated in our last earning release dated February 04, 2022," it said.

MILESTONE MAN AVINASH

Steeplechaser rewrites own national mark for sixth time at Indian GP 2

MARTIN JOSEPH @Kochi

AVINASH Sable gives the impression that he is competing with no one but himself. It was a case of another race and another national record re-written for the Armyman who is making it a routine to smash records. An astonishing stat about Sable is that it was for the sixth time that he was rewriting his own record, as he set another personal best in the 3000m steeplechase event at the Indian GP-2 held at Chandrasekharan Nair Stadium in Thiruvananthapuram on Wednesday.

Interestingly, his timing of 8:16.21s is also now the best timing of 2022 as he has laid down the marker in what was only his first appearance since the Tokyo Olympics last year.

At the Games, Sable had set a time of 8:18:12s which was the national record at that time and there was a lot of curiosity on how the 27-year-old would fare on his return to the track.

In a field where he had no real competition, Sable showed that he is hungry as ever and looking to have a big season ahead. Haryana's Shankar Lal Swami came a distant second with a time of 8:36:37s, more than twenty seconds behind Sable.

"I'm preparing for the World Championship and there are some three to four months for that and things are going according to the target I've set for myself. It was the first competition of this season, and I feel there is still a lot to improve. My main target remains the World Championship, and after that, there is the Commonwealth and Asian Games. But the main focus is the World Championship and preparations are going on according to that," Sable said after his performance.

Sable had first made the national record his own back in 2018 when he broke a 37-year-old record held by Gopal Saini, and ever since then, the man from Beed has had a monopoly of sorts in the steeplechase discipline at the national level. And he looks to be cut from a different cloth. The star athlete was down with Covid in the lead-up to the Olympics but had still managed to produce a stellar performance at the quadrennial event. Another setback that he experienced was the passing away of India's middle and long-distance coach Nikolai Snesarev months before the Games.

"Even after the Olympics was over, Sable never really stopped training. He has been as focussed as ever and such is his devotion to his craft that he never fully switches off," his coach Amrish Kumar told this daily. But it is his ability to forget about everything when he begins a race is what has helped him stay motivated and outdo himself every time he steps on the track. "The thing about Avinash is that he is very clear-headed and grounded. Even if he has been smashing records, every time he is at a new meet, everything he achieved till then is forgotten and he starts on a clean slate."

IPL 2 DAYS TO GO

WILL MUMBAI JUGGERNAUT CONTINUE OR FALL SILENT?

Mumbai Indians are known for their on-field performances, but they are equally impressive when it comes to background duties as was reflected at the auction table. They are one of the big teams, which managed to retain the core of last season to resemble a formidable unit. A look at Rohit Sharma's side ahead of the 15th edition...

Team for today, tomorrow & future

They have won the title five times. Can they deliver a sixth one in 2022? If you go by the squad, the answer is a yes. They have gone with the tried and tested formula, retaining big players Rohit Sharma, Kieron Pollard, Jasprit Bumrah and Suryakumar Yadav, and also signed back Ishan Kishan for 15.25 crores. There you go, five match-winners. Furthermore, some smart buys in the form of Tymal Mills, Tim David, Tilak Varma, Jaydev Unadkat, and Jofra Archer, who is not available this season, make them a formidable side for years to come. If things go according to plan, the Mumbai juggernaut may be unstoppable.

No second face in pace

They have relied heavily on Bumrah, apart from whom there is no Mumbai speedster, who would instil fear in the current squad. One may argue that the team comprises Daniel Sams, Mills, Riley Meredith among others, but they are yet to prove themselves in the IPL. Hence, Jaydev Unadkat needs to deliver as Bumrah's partner in crime. However, the former will be tested in the batting conditions across four batting venues. One cannot even imagine what would happen to their arsenal if Bumrah got injured mid-way.

What to expect

Their batting looks scary. There are runs in the offering from number one to six. With batters like Kishan, Rohit, Pollard, Suryakumar, scores in excess of 180 should be a common feature. Keep a special eye on Hyderabad's 19-year-old batter Tilak Verma. He could well announce his arrival at the elite stage.

We want to groom them so that they can express themselves. The rule of the IPL is such that we can retain only four... but, we have got a new team here... We are here to back them and make sure they get the best out of themselves.

Mairaj set for busy April under new coach

ANMOL GURUNG @Chennai

THERE is a sense of urgency in Mairaj Ahmad Khan's voice.

With major events including Asian Games lined up this year, the veteran skeet shooter knows time is of the essence and he has to invest it wisely in order to mount a challenge during those events. While the National Rifle Association of India (NRAI) is in the process of appointing coaches and is exploring all the applications, Mairaj has already identified one for himself. The first-ever skeet shooter from the country to make an Olympic appearance will be training with Riccardo Filippelli by his side and wants to continue with the Italian at least until the Paris Olympics.

"I need someone behind me. I'm experienced and people may assume that I don't need help but that's not the case. I had no coach behind me during the Tokyo Olympics and having Riccardo around is great. He is young but he is a proven shooter. Every athlete needs that support. Even some of the big athletes (in other sports) have that," Mairaj says.

Mairaj got a sample of the Italian's methods during the recently-held World Cup in Nicosia (Cyprus). The event was a quiet one for the shotgun shooters with the country returning with just one silver. However, for Mairaj, it was a step in the right direction after narrowly missing out in the qualification phase in two events. In testing conditions (close to 0 degrees and high wind speed), the 46-year-old finished 12th out of 103 shooters in the individual event and missed the semifinal cut by a whisker. With Areeba Khan in the mixed event, it was the same story.

That stint with Filippelli has solidified Mairaj's faith in the former. Filippelli, a former European champion, also struck a chord with some of the other skeet shooters during the trip and Mairaj said that they have suggested his name for a role in the national team. The Italian, on his part, has applied for the top post. "It was a great outing. Even young shooters like Areeba and Maheshwari Chauhan got the opportunity to get some input from him during the World Cup. Areeba, who is just 19, did quite well given her experience. In the mixed event, I pushed her as much as I could and she had an average score of 23 (out of 25 in three rounds of shooting). In the shoot-off, I missed a shot. But we were close. We have suggested his name (for coach's role) to the federation, let's see if they'll consider it." The federation could have other preferences of course. "I will obviously respect the federation's choice. I will respect the national coach and try to learn as much as possible. But I'll not leave Riccardo. I'm looking to get his services until Paris Olympics."

Having spent some time at his hometown in Khurja, Mairaj will be returning to training from Thursday. A week or so later, he is hopeful that he can go to Italy to take part in a local competition and undergo a 10-day training stint (under the TOPS scheme) before the Lonato World Cup, which is scheduled to be held from April 19 to 30.

AFP @Sydney

TOP-RANKED Ashleigh Barty stunned the tennis world on Wednesday by retiring from the sport aged just 25, saying she had fulfilled her dreams and was "spent physically".

Barty dropped the bombshell weeks after becoming the first home Australian Open champion in 44 years. "Success for me is knowing that I've given absolutely everything, everything I can. I'm fulfilled, I'm happy and I know how much work it takes to bring the best out of yourself," she said.

Cycling the talk is the new mantra of entrepreneurs and venture capitalists who are ditching Zoom calls and lunch meets to discuss business

Bicycle 2 Business

SANATH PRASAD

IT was in May 2020 that Siddharth Dhamija, chief growth officer at Signzy, took up cycling as a recreational activity. What started as a pastime, now has a business twist to it. Besides ticking the fitness box, Dhamija is exchanging ideas, discussing business analytics, and much more during these rides with fellow entrepreneurs and venture capitalists. "Entrepreneurs mean business. However, these rides actually contain 60 per cent of fitness and 40 per cent of business meetings. Most of the exchanges on business ideas happen during the start of the ride, while the rest of the ride goes into reflecting on the discussion and later followed by breakfast," says Dhamija, who is part of different cycling clubs consisting of VCs and entrepreneurs in Bengaluru, and heads to the outskirts of the city for rides.

Entrepreneurs believe that cycling can symbolise 'sustainability', something that can be incorporated into business plans. Bicycle mayor Satyan Sankaran, who is now an entrepreneur and founder of Urbanmorph, a startup that is based on energy mobility and waste management, meets his business partners on his bicycle. He believes that 'cycling is the new golf'. "I met my business partner who also cycled his way to a coffee shop. We had a chat around EV charging and collaboration on electric mobility. Since both of us cycled our way to meet, it became symbolic of what we stand for. It means we are socially aware, practice sustainability and shows that even the business can turn out to be sustainable. We automatically imbibe sustainable goals into the business culture," says Sankaran.

Sarath Sasidharan, chief technical officer (CTO) at Rustic Wisdom, a health and wellness startup, is part of at least four long-distance cycle rides every week. Although he is ensuring that his fitness box is ticked, he is also fortunate to have met some investors during his rides. "If health is one aspect of the cycle ride, the other is definitely about networking. I have met a couple of investors who could be of help in our startup's future goals. Moreover, I have had discussions with B2B clients who could collaborate with us on certain health and wellness workshops," says Sasidharan.

MS Shriram, a cycle coach, who hosts cycle rides every weekend, trains about 28 active riders. "A big chunk of the group consists of entrepreneurs who run their own businesses. Cycling is an ideal getaway time to socialise. A lot of riders connect with the fellow riders and build on mutual connection for their business interests. This trend has exponentially grown after the lockdown, because cycling became central to many people's lifestyle during the pandemic," says Shriram who is also the founder of a cycle group Sprocket Science India.

'Need seven lives to understand India'

History teacher and now leading career diplomat...British High Commissioner to India Alex Ellis, who has a long-standing connection with the country, on his love for all-things Indian...

VIDYA IYENGAR

HE'S won the hearts of several netizens with his posts on food- masala dosae in Bengaluru, rasgulla in Kolkata and vada pav in Mumbai. British High Commissioner Alex Ellis, who took charge in early 2021, has been soaking in the varied local experiences that the country has to offer.

In Bengaluru on Tuesday, Ellis settles into the conversation, post a tumbler of steaming hot rasam, at the residence of the British Deputy High Commissioner for Karnataka & Kerala, Anna Shotbolt.

"There are many great things about Bengaluru, but the greatest is not here today. Rahul Dravid," he says. And laughter engulfs the room. A couple of months ago, social media was abuzz after Dravid was spotted teaching Kannada to Ellis amid the India vs England Test series. "He's one of my true heroes."

Ellis' connect with India goes back to the '80s when he first came to Madhya Pradesh as a history teacher, much before he joined the civil services. "I was 18 and it was a different India, one with the Licence Raj and one that was very closed. The country has changed tremendously in terms of development and its speed. I loved it then and love it now," he says.

He agrees that taking charge at a time when the country was seeing some tumultuous moments brought some challenges along. "It's a funny time to come to a country considering Covid...There have been some tough moments for India which is the same for the UK too. But we've come out of the worst and now it's about working on how to accelerate the plan to move forward. How do we create more trade and investment and jobs? Both countries have shown a lot of resilience in these times. Now, there's a huge demand for those moving between the two countries. There's a demand for visas for travel and work, which is a good thing," he says, adding that India is one of the biggest priority countries for the UK.

There's food and cricket, and like Ellis says, "What's not to love? You need seven lives to understand India. And I'm on the first."

Building a new world

As the iconic Kapoor Building on MG Road gets a facelift, ex-owners recall their memories of the structure with CE

Kapoor's Building on MG Road is being razed to make way for a jewellery store

IF you are walking past MG Road, closer to Anil Kumble circle, it is difficult to miss a quaint yellow building in the heart of the central business district. Many remember the structure as Empire Talkies, which was once popular for screening Bollywood movies. But for old Bengalureans, it is a landmark building which houses the fashion studio of designer Paresh Lamba.

The 'Kapoor Building' as it has come to be known is all set to make way for a jewellery store. With only a few old-time structures remaining in Bengaluru, many netizens have raised objections to the demolition after pictures of the razed building made the rounds on social media. In January, the family-owned building was sold to the upcoming store.

It was an emotional moment for Shakuntala Kapoor, wife of Ravinder Kapoor, one of the ex-owners of the building, when the name of the building was knocked off. "It had the name 'Kapoor Building' stenciled out on the top which was removed. This was hurtful," says Shakuntala. She recalls that the building was purchased in 1933 by city-based businessman Karamchand Kapoor, for ₹57,900, and was then mortgaged. Karamchand – grandfather of Ravinder – owned multiple businesses. "We were into the textile business, supplying woollens to the British Army during World War II. Besides, we were distributors of Imperial Tobacco Company, which later became the Indian Tobacco company," says Shakuntala.

Paresh Lamba

Initially the building was leased to Burmese refugee Rosch, who ran Empire Talkies. Shakuntala recalls watching movies like Uran Khatola, Naya Daur etc. "My oldest daughter has watched every movie that has hit that theatre. But what was unique was that the theatre had a section for burkha-clad women in the early '70s," says Shakuntala. The Kapoor family later acquired the possession of the theatre in 1971 but had to shut it down in 1984 after the licence was cancelled.

Shakuntala was quite glad after her second son-in-law, Lamba, started his studio there. "We encouraged Paresh to start his business in the building. It flourished and he became a well-known designer in the building," says Shakuntala. Agrees Lamba. "When I started my business, it appeared like a corner building on MG Road. But still I went ahead with it. Today, after moving out, I made a name for myself because of my studio in that building," says Lamba.

The pain of letting go of the building is still fresh in the minds of the Kapoors'. "I don't feel like going to MG Road because some parts of the building were razed. For some reason, I thought the facade would be kept and restored, but it was not spared ," says a disappointed Shakuntala.

Ravinder, who now likes to keep a low-profile when it comes to speaking about the building, says they also tried to restore it before selling it. "There were also plans of restoring the building on the similar lines of the Opera House. But not everyone was on the same page," he sighs.

Intake of diversified nutrients in balanced diet vital for healthy life

As part of its 'Illness to Wellness' campaign, Associated Chambers of Commerce and Industry of India had recently released India's largest primary healthcare survey report on the rising burden of non-communicable diseases (NCDs) in the country. The report titled Non-Communicable Diseases in India, covered 2,33,672 people and 673 public health offices across 21 states. The study found that people were increasingly consuming diets low in legumes, milk, omega-3 fatty acids, vegetables, fruits, calcium etc, and were opting for foods rich in sugar and trans-fats. —IANS

Ventilation systems in schools can reduce Covid cases: Study

Improving school ventilation systems can help reduce Covid-19 cases among students, an Italian study showed. The study conducted by the Hume Foundation, an Italian think tank, involved 10,441 classrooms in Marche in central Italy, of which 316 classrooms were equipped with mechanical ventilation systems while the other 10,125 were not. In the 316 classrooms with mechanical ventilation systems, there were far fewer cases of Covid, and the number of infections reduced in step with the quality of the school's ventilation system, according to the study. Compared to levels in classrooms with no ventilation systems, Covid cases were reduced by 40 per cent when classroom air was completely replaced every 25 minutes. When the air was completely replaced every 15 minutes, cases were lower, the study showed. —IANS

IN YOUR BONES

Here's how you can keep your bones healthy with regular exercise and calcium-rich food

DR THIRUMALESH K REDDY

FROM providing support to the body, facilitation of movement, protection of internal organs, storage of minerals and fat, and haematopoiesis (formation of blood cellular components), bones play an integral part in our body. Keeping our bone health strong is vital to support our entire body weight and help form our shape. There are many things one can do to keep the bones healthy and strong. Eating foods rich in calcium, getting plenty of exercise, and having good health habits help keep the bones healthy.

Factors that affect bone health

DIET: A diet low in calcium can cause the bone to lose its density, early bone loss and an increased risk of fractures due to osteoporosis.

LACK OF EXERCISE: The bones require physical activity to maintain strength, density, and resilience. Sedentary lifestyle and physically inactive people have a higher risk of developing osteoporosis. Exposer to sun light and exercise helps maintain Vitamin D levels.

TOBACCO AND ALCOHOL USE: Using tobacco has been associated with reducing the bone mass and increasing the chances of experiencing fractures and breaks. And studies have shown that regularly having excessive alcohol may increase the risk of osteoporosis. Heavy alcohol consumption can impact the bone density.

BODY WEIGHT: It is ideal for everyone to maintain a healthy weight to keep the bones healthy. Body weight is directly associated with bone mineral density (BMD). Low body mass index (BMI) has been identified as an important risk factor for lower BMD and high body weight can lead to an increase BMD.

How does bone health develop with age?

Adolescence period is known for the greatest bone growth. In young adulthood, the bones reach their maximum strength and density by 30. During middle adulthood, gradual bone loss begins and remodelling process slows down. In people above 50 years, the focus must be given on strengthening bones with proper nutrition and exercise. And those over 70, it is vital to prevent falls to lower the risk of fractures.

One can keep their bones healthy by consuming vegetables, milk and by including plenty of calcium in the diet. Your body needs Vitamin D to absorb calcium. Salmon, tuna, mushrooms, eggs and fortified foods, such as milk and cereals, are good sources of Vitamin D. One can get the natural source from early sunlight. One must include weight-bearing exercises like walking, jogging, and climbing stairs, can help you build strong bones and slow down bone loss. And lastly, avoid consumption of tobacco and alcohol.

Test to measure bone mineral density

A DEXA scan is an imaging test that measures bone density (strength). It is done to check bone mineral density and helps determine risks of osteoporosis and fracture.

(The writer is senior and lead consultant - joint replacement and arthroscopic surgery at Aster CMI Hospital)

UNCONTROLLABLE FACTORS

GENDER: Hormonal changes after menopause increases the risk of osteoporosis in women.

AGE: Bones gradually become thinner and weaker over time.

FAMILY HISTORY: Those of Asian and European descent are more likely to get osteoporosis than other ethnic groups, say studies.

Q&A

1 The sleeves of my T-shirts have become tight. Is it possible to have put on weight in one particular area of my body?

Yes, it's possible! Everyone has problem areas. Either it's the butt, legs, chin, cheeks, hip, belly, waist or thighs. In your case, arms seem to have more fat cells compared to the other parts of the body. Fat cells are basically like storage pockets. We all need a certain amount of calories to function. Calories come from the food we consume and it's required for breathing, walking, talking, sitting, digestion and other bodily activities. Consumption of excess calories in the absence of exercise will drive calories to be deposited in these pockets as the body does not know what to do with these excess calories. Since there is no spot reduction, stay committed to a healthy lifestyle or prevent hefty arms.

2 I heard my friend saying the size of the bones in his body are bigger than an average person. Is it possible that my weight is not coming down because I have bigger bones too?

Bones make up about 15 per cent of a person's total body weight. If you are strength training regularly and following a good diet, then there will be an increase in your bone density. The best way to determine the percentage of fat, muscle and bone is to get a BMI test done. These machines calculate body weight, muscle mass, body fluids, fat mass etc. Continue to exercise and eat clean and look out for inch loss.

3 I am more than 90 kg and am worried that if I lose weight, my skin is going to be flabby too. Is weight loss possible without affecting my skin?

You are worried about excess skin! You should be more worried about the health repercussions of excess fat and the impact it lays on your joints. If you lose weight the wrong way, you will be left with a pile of loose skin hanging all over you. If done the right way, the impact is a lot lesser. Here is your action plan — start slow. Address your diet, eat clean, create a calorie deficit, and expend calories via exercise. Include the most important and neglected component of fitness that is strength training. This helps build lean muscle mass and keeps skin taut.

DASARA TITLE CLASH

The title of Sharmiela Mandre's upcoming Kannada film is the same as Nani's upcoming multilingual film

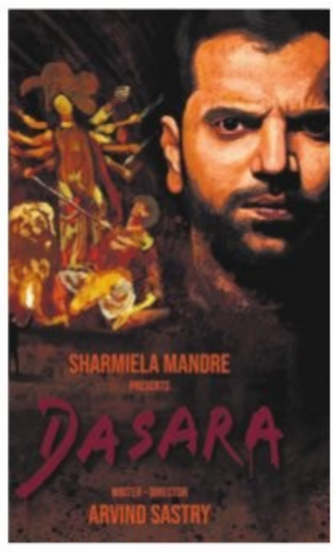
CE FEATURES

ACTOR Sharmiela Mandre's maiden production venture is facing an issue as the title of the film - Dasara – is the same as Nani's upcoming multilingual film directed by debutant Srikanth Odella. A copyright claim has been made by Sharmiela Mandre, who has appealed to the Karnataka Film Chamber of Commerce. In a press statement, she has claimed that her production house had registered the title the KFCC in September 2020.

Sharing the proof with CE, Sharmiela said that the team of Dasara was shocked to know the title has been used by Nani's film, which will be released in multiple languages including Kannada.

Sharmiela stated that two films having the same name would severely affect the box office performance of her film. She has requested KFCC to at least have the Telugu production house change the title of the Kananda version and not cause any further problems.

Dasara, directed by Arvind Sastry, has Sathish and Sharmiela Mandre sharing screen space for the first time. The film will also see Rukmini Vijaykumar playing a pivotal role. Dasara has Midhun Mukundan of GGVV fame scoring the music and Abin Rajesh taking care of the camerawork.



ASHIKA RANGANATH TO STAR OPPOSITE DUSHYANTH IN GATHAVAIBHAVA?

A SHARADHAA

DIRECTOR Suni is set to launch Dushyanth in Gathavaibhava, which will go on floors in May. Meanwhile, the hunt is on for the female lead, and speculations are rife that Ashika Ranganath will be cast opposite the debutant. However, an official announcement is awaited from the team.

Meanwhile, Ashika has some interesting projects at different stages of production, and will next be seen in Sharan's Avatara Purusha, which will release on May 6. She is also part of Pawan Wadeyar's upcoming directorial, Raymo, which stars Ishan opposite her. The actor is now busy shooting for O2, a medical thriller made under the PRK Production banner.

Ashika, who is also making inroads in other south Indian languages, will make her Tamil debut alongside Atharva. She is also in talks for a Telugu project, the details of which are yet-to-be-known. Gathavaibhava marks her second collaboration with director Suni after Avatara Purusha. The makers had come up with an innovative launch video of Dushyanth that showcased the young talent's skills.

Billed as a fantasy drama, Gathavaibhava has Dushyanth playing a VFX artist. The film, backed by Deepak Thimmappa and director Suni, has cinematography by William David and music by Bharath BJ and Judah Sandy.

Suman

SUMAN TO STAR IN PIVOTAL ROLE IN BANJARA FILM, SEVA DAS

CE FEATURES

MULTILINGUAL actor Suman, who has acted in 600 films in over 10 languages in his career spanning 44 years has starred in a film made in the Banjara language. Titled Seva Daas, the film explores the Banjara culture, and has Suman playing a luminary in the community.

KPN Chawhan, who has written and directed Seva Daas, also plays the lead. Speaking at the pre-release event of Seva Daas, Suman mentioned that he was born in Karnataka, and made a name in Telugu. "Having starred in 100 films as a hero, I later took up character roles, and I've so far worked in 600 films across 10 languages," said Suman. The actor considers it as a divine blessing to have got to be part of a Banjara film. "While making the film, I realised that the production values are high," shared Suman, who was equally happy to see his colleague Bhanuchander getting back in the limelight with this film. "The role in this film is similar to the characters I played in Annamayya and Rama Dasu," Suman said.

Seva Daas will be among the series of films slated to release on April 1 and it will hit theatres across Karnataka, Hyderabad, Goa, and Maharastra. The makers have also eyed the overseas market and will be releasing Seva Daas in the USA, Australia, and Malaysia among other countries.

The film also stars Preethi Asrani, Chalaki Chanti, Geetha Singh, Vijay Rangaraju, Naveena Reddy, Rekha Norosha, Sampath, Vinod Raia, and Bikshaw Naik. While Bhole Shavali has handled the music, the cinematography is by Vijay Tagore.

Rahul Nair

'DATING IS SO MUCH MORE COMPLICATED TODAY'

RAM VENKAT SRIKAR

ETERNALLY Confused and Eager for Love is arguably the most inventive young-adult comedy to come out of India. It inherits all the traits of the genre: a confused protagonist, seething emotions, messy relationships, comforting friendships, and more importantly, the confounding uncertainty that pervades the mind of a 25-year-old.

What exalts it beyond genre prerequisites is Rahul Nair's writing, which personifies the conscience of the perpetually awkward and intermittently sensible Ray, embodied by an able Vihaan Samat—by employing an inanimate object, the superhero toy, Wiz (Jim Sarbh does a fabulous job of pumping life into this immobile object). Wiz is omnipresent in Ray's life, in the form of a keychain he carries along, as an action figure in his bedroom, as a pencil sketch on a paper in his cubicle, and even in the bathing area, as a poster. The writing succeeds in ingraining Wiz to an extent that when Ray is on the screen, we begin to comprehend that Wiz is present too... inside his head. The presence of Wiz accentuates every scene, on both a comical and dramatic level.

For Vihaan, who shares the best chemistry in the show with the invisible Wiz, cracking the dynamic was no walk in the park, but his method acting classes at Tisch School of the Arts, and the acting workshops came in handy. "We had a month-long workshop where we tried to figure out who Ray is and what it means to have a lifeless toy as your best friend. We tried to find out why he would resort to it. I also had to make sure that I was in tune with his awkwardness, nervousness, and personality. We then added layers to the character from a performance perspective—there is just Ray; Ray and the toy without the voice; Ray and the toy with the voice; Ray and the toy with voice and other human characters..." says Vihaan, before breaking into laughter as he realises that he is trying too seriously to explain the dynamic he shares with the toy.

The show's creator and director Rahul Nair admits that there are "certain elements" of his personality in Ray. "To an extent, yes. I think everyone writes what they see and know. For instance, I studied abroad and came back, so did Ray, but that's where the similarities end." The idea of the show too emerged from how he felt about the dating scene in the present day. "When I came out of college a couple of years ago, I realised that there's so much to do and dating is now much more complicated; there are your friends putting pressure, there are a multitude of dating apps... you see, it's like you are spoilt for choice. It's like going to a retail store with a myriad of brands to choose from, but it only adds to the pressure of someone who is struggling. You can see the options but lack of the ability to pick can be unsettling. That's where Ray came from." Does Rahul have a Wiz in life though? "No comments," he asserts, before divulging, "No, I don't have a Wiz in my life." Rahul considers Wiz "a great tool to articulate how people think." Wiz is definitely not his inner voice, he reaffirms.

Eternally Confused... thrives in dry humour, with some of the best conversations—apart from Wiz's killer retorts—happening between Vihaan and his parents, faultlessly played by a stoic Rahul Bose and an equally effective Suchitra Pillai. My favourite is a dining-table conversation between the trio, when the father, who is convinced that his son has no friends, learns from his wife that Ray, in fact, has two friends—Riya from high school and Varun from work. "Two friends?" Rahul questions Vihaan with simmering disappointment. It's also one of Vihaan's favourite scenes, being one of the earliest scenes they shot. The actor takes a moment to laugh before responding as he recollects working with Rahul Bose, "the improv king" and Suchitra Pillai whose "gracefulness, warmth and caring nature," he believes, reflects in the show. Rahul Bose, on the other hand, Vihaan says, is "quite eccentric and straightforward" and his ability to come up with lines on the spot kept Vihaan on the edge.

Talking about his style of humour, Rahul shares, "I don't know where the dry humour comes from, but I feel if I try and dissect it, I might lose it. I didn't aim for a particular brand of humour. Instead, I created moments to place Ray in. I would think about the purpose of a scene and then come up with how the character would react in the situation."

What makes Eternally Confused... more than a hilarious show is, like Vihaan rightly points out, "that comes from a place of truth. It is not written just to be funny." He adds, "Ray is an interesting human. I was looking to play a person who is not in control of the situation, not confident and doesn't know what to do, and Ray was the perfectly imperfect character to reverse it, especially because you can hear exactly what's going on in his mind." His flaws and anxieties humanise Ray, making him a unique, likeable, and surprisingly relatable character.

As the conversation nears the end, I ask Rahul a pressing question. Did he get to take Wiz home after the filming? "You know what? I tried really hard. And I was told I could not. The art department got hold of him, packed him in a box, and placed it in a warehouse," Rahul says. "I am sure he is yelling to be brought back," Vihaan adds. Going by the reactions to the show, Wiz's stay in the box won't last too long.
